ALLIES ISSUE ORDERS TO LIFT HUN BLOCKADE PLOT TO HALT WILSON'S LEAGUE TOUR

INVITATION TO ATTEND MEETINGS PLANNED

Senator Moses Will Introduce Resolution to Keep Wilson at Home

PRESIDENT IN SPEECH OFFERS HIS SERVICES

Swanson of Virginia May Replace Hitchcock In Spokesman's Job

By L. C. MARTIN
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
WASHINGTON, July 12.—An attempt to prevent President Wilson making his cross country tour in behalf of the league of nations, by keeping him in daily attendance at meetings of the senate foreign relations committee, was being discussed today by league opponents in congress.

Senator Moses, New Hampshire, a new Republican member of the committee, said today he plans to offer a resolution in the committee Monday inviting President Wilson to attend the sessions of that body, beginning at 10 a. m. each day while the peace treaty is being discussed.

"I think the president could more effectively serve his country in this way than by making stump speeches throughout the nation," said Moses.

President Wilson has already expressed a willingness to give all information possible to the committee. Other Republican members said today they favored having Wilson meet the committee to inform it fully on treaty provisions, about which there is controversy or doubt. Borah said he would vote for a resolution inviting Wilson to appear.

Many Democrats also would like to see the president's offer of his services, made in his speech to the senate, accepted at once.

The view generally taken was that the committee cannot refuse to invite the president to appear, in view of his clearly expressed desire to do so. If he should refuse, no claim could be made that the senate was forced to act on the treaty without proper information from the president, it was pointed out.

However, Wilson's friends want him to attend only a few sessions. Another development was a persistent report that President Wilson had decided to ask Senator Swanson, Virginia, to handle the fight for the league in the senate, displacing Senator Hitchcock, who has been the administration spokesman.

Color was given this report by the fact that since his return Wilson has not conferred with Hitchcock but spent nearly an hour talking with Swanson in the capitol Thursday; that Swanson, not Hitchcock, will deliver the first speech on the league Monday when the senate resumes business, and that Hitchcock left Washington for his summer home in New England Thursday night.

Wilson-Hitchcock Row Is Given Denial By Tumulty

WASHINGTON, July 12.—Secretary Tumulty today issued a statement that reports of a disagreement between President Wilson and Senator Hitchcock, who had been his most ardent supporter, were untrue. The statement said, "The stories appearing in the morning papers of a disagreement between the President and Senator Hitchcock, are without any foundation. There has been no conference between the President and Democratic senators since his return. What the newspapers refer to as a conference was merely an informal meeting at the President's room in the capitol which took place immediately after the President had addressed the Senate when many Democratic senators including Senator Hitchcock came to greet the President and congratulate him on his address."

Japan Gets Shantung Same as Reward For Ousting Burglar

WASHINGTON, July 12.—Japan gets Shantung on the same principle a man would be rewarded for ousting a burglar from another man's property. This is to be the administration's explanation of the Shantung settlement, Senator Swanson, Virginia, said today following a talk with President Wilson.

"Japan ousted the German burglar," said Swanson. "As a reward Japan is entitled to collect at least as much as it spent in doing so. This Japan can do through temporary possession of Shantung."

NEW IS INDICTED FOR MURDER BY GRAND JURY

LOS ANGELES, July 12.—With the preliminary hearing of Harry S. New on charges of killing Frieda Lesser set for Monday morning, the county grand jury suddenly returned a murder indictment against New today and took the case out of the justice court and directly to the superior court.

Attorneys said that this action will have an important effect on impeding the efforts of the defense to have New examined immediately before a lunacy board. New probably will be arraigned on the indictment Tuesday morning.

Two depositions—one from United States Senator Harry S. New of Indiana and the other from an unnamed admirer of Frieda Lesser in Birmingham, Alabama, may figure in the defense of New, who claims Senator New as his father. Attorney J. L. Richardson for the defense admitted today. Asking for these depositions is under consideration.

Senator New's deposition would deal with the parentage of the accused man. The deposition from Birmingham would be to reveal whether New had a rival in the affections of Miss Lesser. Detectives claim they have about a dozen letters from a young man in Birmingham, whose identity they do not reveal, showing that he and Miss Lesser were at least very warm friends.

It was generally understood an effort to have New examined for his sanity would be the first big step of the defense. If declared insane New could not be tried for murder, lawyers say.

At the same time detectives started investigation of a report that New attended a dance last Friday night—the same night that Miss Lesser died—at Camp Tanager, in Topanga canyon where the girl was killed. Miss Hazel Prichard, a stenographer, reported that she danced at Camp Tanager last Friday with a young man who said his name was New. Miss Prichard will be given an opportunity to identify New.

SHIP WITH MUNITIONS FOR ALLIES HELD UP

NAPLES, July 11.—The Seamen's Federation prevented the steamer Cablen, bound from London for Vladivostok, from leaving this port today because it was carrying eighty cases of munitions destined for allied contingents who are fighting the Bolshevik forces.

WANTS $50 A WEEK FROM HUSBY'S PURSE

Last December a final decree of divorce was granted here to Lena A. Quinn from John Quinn, and he was ordered to pay her $20 a week for the support of herself and minor children. When the suit was filed she declared her husband was earning $50 a week.

In a petition filed with the court today, Mrs. Quinn alleges her former husband is now earning $500 a month and she asks that Quinn be brought into court to show cause, if any he has, why he should not be required to pay $50 a week for the support of his former wife and their children.

HALTS BILL PLANNED TO KILL LIGHT SAVING LAW

Wilson Vetoes Agricultural Measure and the Sundry Civil Appropriation Act Because Fund Too Small.

WASHINGTON, July 12.—President Wilson today vetoed the agricultural bill because of the clause providing for the repeal of daylight saving. The president also returned to the house without his signature the sundry civil appropriation bill, because he said it contained items "likely to be of the most serious consequences."

The President declared the repeal of the daylight saving law would be a great inconvenience and also "would involve serious economic loss."

He said that daylight saving was adopted after careful study of its effect on economic conditions and its success in other countries and it also had been beneficial in saving great quantities of fuel.

The President said that he had returned, unsigned, the sundry civil bill because the bill does not make sufficient provision to finance the work of rehabilitating injured soldiers and giving them vocational training.

BULLETINS

CONSTANTINOPLE, July 12.—Enver Pasha, Talaat Bey and Djemal Pasha, Turkish leaders during the war, were sentenced to death today by a Turkish court-martial. The Shiek ul Islam and Dkavid Bey were sentenced to 15 years imprisonment.

PARIS, July 12.—A memorandum protesting against the Shantung settlement in the peace treaty such as Senator Borah requested from President Wilson was signed by Secretary Lansing, General Bliss and former Ambassador White and submitted to the President, it was learned from an authoritative source this afternoon.

PARIS, July 12.—Thomas Nelson Page has resigned as American ambassador to Italy, it became known this afternoon. Brand Whitlock, former minister of Belgium, will succeed him.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 12.—The bartenders' union may change its name to the "Soft Drink Dispensers' Union," union leaders stated today. Whatever happens to the liquor business the union is to be kept intact to work for the interests of its membership, they said.

MAYOR SNYDER URGES PHONE STRIKE ACTION

LOS ANGELES, July 12.—Mayor Meredith P. Snyder of Los Angeles today added his voice to those demanding government action to end the telephone strike. He telegraphed President Wilson asking him to use his "best efforts" to effect "a speedy settlement."

DANIELS TO SEE HARBOR DURING HIS COAST TRIP

Secretary of Navy Writes To Chamber of Commerce That He Will Pay Visit To County If Possible.

DECLARING that he is anticipating with interest and pleasure his forthcoming visit to the Pacific Coast, and expressing a hope that he may be able to visit Santa Ana, Secretary of the Navy Daniels has acknowledged the receipt of an invitation to come to this city extended by the Chamber of Commerce through Secretary J. C. Metzgar.

It is hoped to have the distinguished secretary here, not only that he might see the best little city in the best country in the best state in the best country in the world, but that he may also see what some day ardent boosters believe will be one of the big commercial ports of the world—Newport Harbor.

The Pacific Coast is in line for a naval training station. There is no harbor on the coast that offers better facilities for the school than Newport. Naval men have already pronounced the upper bay as one of the most ideal locations for such a government institution possible.

No effort will be spared to induce the Secretary of the Navy to take time to come here and go over that site with local men. Once he has seen it, the boosters are willing that he should exercise his own judgment in passing on the qualifications. They are ready to place the site against any that can be offered along the southern shores. They are not afraid of comparisons.

New Tourist Hotel
Conditions are rapidly coming about that will make the location even more desirable than it is at the present time. The new tourist hotel is one of them. A city, with good hotel accommodations, near at hand, is one of the requisites.

The natural home surroundings of Santa Ana, a city where the home life is one of real family and community congeniality, will make the location of a station at Newport one that is ideal. Santa Ana is free of contaminating influences to which young men are more or less susceptible, and this condition is one that the class of young men today taking up the navy, appreciate.

Voting of the harbor opened the way to Metzgar to extend the secretary an invitation to visit Orange County and the harbor. The following correspondence is of interest:

"Santa Ana, July 1, 1919.
"Josephus Daniels, Secretary Navy,
"Washington, D. C.

"Dear Mr. Daniels: Your coming visit to the Pacific Coast is of great interest to the citizens of Orange County.

"We have recently voted bonds for the improvement of Newport harbor, and as this project is of much importance we cordially invite you to include a visit to Orange County in your itinerary, for the purpose of inspecting the possibilities of Orange County's harbor.

"J. C. METZGAR.
"Secretary of C. of C.
"Reply of Daniels
"J. C. Metzgar, Secretary C. of C.,
"Santa Ana, Calif.

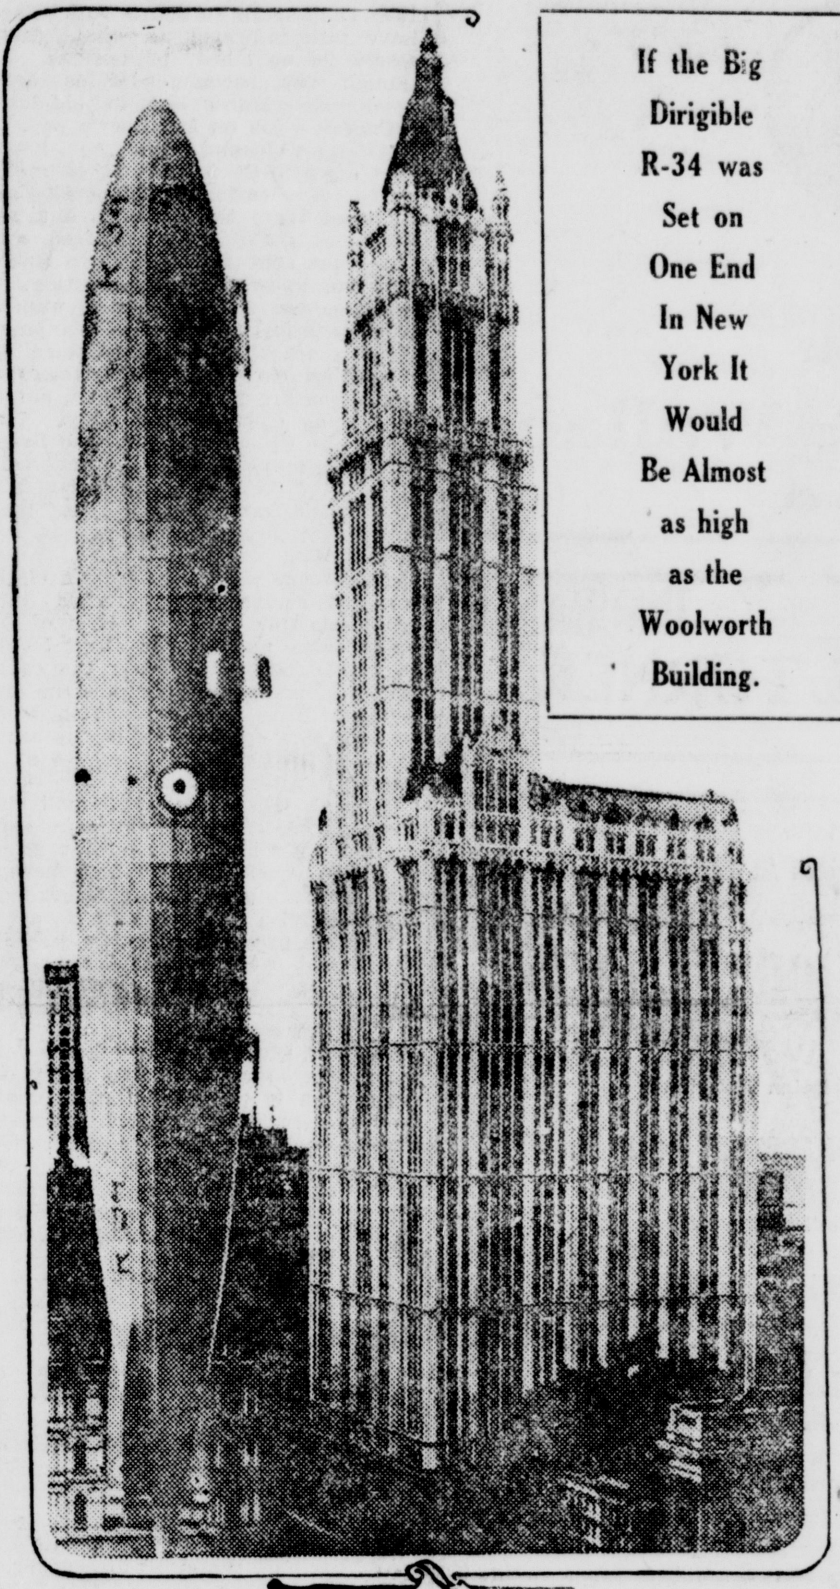

"My Dear Mr. Metzgar: I have your letter of July 1st and thank you very much for it. I am looking forward with a great deal of interest and pleasure to my forthcoming visit to the Pacific Coast, and trust I may be able to visit your city. Your letters of January 28th and July 1st are before me and I am bearing in mind your very cordial invitation.

"Sincerely yours,
"JOSEPHUS DANIELS.
"Washington, July 1, 1919."
"J. C. Metzgar, Secretary C. of C.,
"Santa Ana, Calif.

"Dear Mr. Metzgar: I have your letter of July 1st, in which you ask that Mr. Daniels include Orange County in his itinerary. I will surely extend your invitation to the Secretary and trust that we can prevail upon him to accept.

"Sincerely,
"WILLIAM KETNER."

DIRIGIBLE LOSING SPEED AS ENGINE IS DISABLED

If the Big Dirigible R-34 was Set on One End In New York It Would Be Almost as high as the Woolworth Building.

R-34 Is Expected to Land at Pulham, Norfolk, at 9 a. m. Tomorrow

LONDON, July 12.—The British dirigible R-34 was 250 miles off the west coast of Ireland at 11 o'clock this morning, New York time, according to a wireless to the Air Ministry. The airship's location was given at 53 north latitude and 15.20 west longitude or 700 miles west of London.

LONDON, July 12.—The British dirigible R-34 was 550 miles west of London at 11 a. m., Greenwich time (7 a. m. New York time), the air ministry announced today. Her position at that hour was 52.55 north latitude and 19.30 west longitude.

Flying at constantly lessening speed, the dirigible was less than 1000 miles directly west of London at 6:30 a. m., Greenwich time (2:30 a. m. New York time). At that hour the airship wirelessed her position at 52.15 north latitude and 23.00 west longitude. Her course was north 70, east 2, and she was making 35 knots an hour.

Owing to storms over Scotland, the air ministry wirelessed the R-34 shortly before noon to land at Pulham, Norfolk (about 100 miles northeast of London), instead of proceeding to East Fortune. The craft was expected to reach Pulham about 9 o'clock tomorrow morning, London summer time (4 a. m. New York time).

The reduced speed of the R-34 resulted from a disabled engine. She reported this in the following message: "The R-34 at 8:10 Greenwich time (4:10 p. m. New York time), is 4,000 feet above the clouds and going strong, despite a disabled engine. We are just about to descend to look at the sea. All well."

It was assumed that the crippled motor was the one on the port center gondola, since that engine sustained a cracked water jacket on the trip to America.

The R-34 apparently was employing only two engines, as Major Scott, the commander, announced before he started at midnight Wednesday.

WILSON'S ACTS CHAMPIONED BY FERRI

ROME, July 12.—Speaking in the chamber of deputies today on Italy's foreign policy, Professor Enrico Ferri, socialist deputy, declared that ex-Premier Orlando and Baron Sonnino, former foreign minister, through the press had led the nation to believe that President Wilson has shamefully deceived the Italians.

"We know that before entering the peace conference Wilson wished to state frankly that he could not conscientiously uphold all of Italy's aspirations," Ferri said. "Sonnino asked Wilson to keep quiet."

"Now if this is true why did the government permit D'Annunzio to attack the president and Mrs. Wilson. This is outrageous, as Wilson is fundamentally honest, like the great people he represents."

Signor Murialdi, under-secretary of supplies, declared in a statement today that if agreements with the allies are not renewed before the end of July Italy will be without bread by September.

"The solution of the food problem rests with the workers," he said. "Italy must produce more and consume less. Cereals especially must be produced."

Today's cabinet meeting took measures to prevent the renewal of disorder.

COPPER GOING UP
NEW YORK, July 12.—Copper today was quoted here at 21 cents a pound, the highest of a year. Predictions were made that renewal of trade with Germany would create an export demand which would send the price to 26 cents.

ITALY ASKS AUSTRIANS' HOLDINGS IN CHINA

Council Considers Taking Down Barrier Now Up Against Russia

UNITY OF COMMAND IN HUNGARY CONSIDERED

Despatch of British, French and U. S. Warships to Fiume Surprise

By FRED S. FERGUSON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
PARIS, July 12.—The council of five began issuing instructions today on the cessation of the blockade against Germany.

The council also started consideration of lifting the blockade against Russia, its maintenance being regarded as most difficult by the official decree abolishing the barriers around Germany. American delegates also held it was not legal.

Italy filed a claim today asking that she be granted the Austrian concession in Tien Tsin, China, the peace treaty now providing that the concession revert to China for international use.

"The blockade against Germany was to be raised today, according to the decision announced yesterday by the council."

Experts advised the council that they considered ratification of the peace treaty by the German national assembly was sufficient, without awaiting action by the Prussian and Bavarian parliaments. The council concurred in the opinion.

Intervention in Hungary by the Rumanians, Czechoslovaks and Jugo Slavs was being considered today by the allied military commissioners and representatives of the three powers which will undertake the action Marshal Foch was asked yesterday to state the amount of supplies, munitions and other materials needed.

Unity of Command
Unity of command also was discussed. Representatives of these countries were instructed to ask their home governments to submit reports in response to Foch's inquiries within eight days. A decision on the intervention proposal will be reached soon after these replies are received.

Despatch of British, French and American warships to Fiume was a surprise, though apparently such a course was decided upon at least two days ago, as the ships are now on their way. It was hoped today that the presence of the vessels would help to stabilize the situation, but the Italians consider their despatch was wholly a French move. They declare Premier Clemenceau proposed to the big five that a French warship be sent, whereupon the British decided to send one, America sending another to watch the other two.

The German note suggesting creation of a German-Polish commission will not be answered by the allies, it was learned today.

The big five forwarded a note to the Germans today, informing them that their ratification of the treaty had been accepted and that the individual allied governments would take steps to lift the blockade.

BURGLARS BIND MAN TAKE CASH, TROUSERS

LOS ANGELES, July 12.—Harry J. Murphy awoke this morning to find two burglars in his room, in the act of binding him to his bed with a sheet they had torn to strips. They finished the binding and gagging process and then Murphy watched them extract $10 from his pants pockets. The burglars left, but just for a minute. "We forgot something," one said as he came back and carried away Murphy's trousers.

WHITNEY FINDS REAL CAUSE OF WORLD WAR

One Might Judge That He Is Not Overly Fond of That Spot on Earth

It remained for Lieut. Clyde Whitney to discover what the war was about.

He didn't get the inside story until he had had a stay at Brest, and when he knew Brest he thought it all out.

Lieut. Whitney gives his august conclusions in a letter written at Brest on June 26 to Harvey A. Gardner of the Orange County Title Co., where Whitney was employed when he entered army service. Whitney is in the salvage and reclamation department, as may be judged from that portion of his letter published here, with as follows:

As this is vacation time again back in God's country, this letter may not find you home. You may be out angling for another string of trout. Well, I am just about two years behind on vacations now, as I haven't been able to get a leave approved yet. "Can't be spared." Seems funny they can't spare a "Shave Tail." They have also informed us that there would be no more promotions, although our recommendations have been in since March. Hate to hold down a Captain's job on 2nd Loe's pay.

After we cleaned up at Lyon, I was sent down to St. Nazaire as officer in charge of sales for that Base Section. I stayed there three weeks, and got the sales pretty well organized, and then they sent me up here to Brest. Now you know, that the conditions at Brest caused some of our prominent politicians in the States to lose some sleep about the time they were insisting on investigations. However, conditions are much improved, but it still rains every other day. You know, the French tried to give Brest to the Germans, and the Germans said "No," that they would be damned if they would have it, and that they would fight first, and that is how the World War started.

At present we are selling old clothing and equipment at retail and wholesale both. I am in charge of the retail sales, and take in about 50,000 to 90,000 francs daily over the counter. Our main customers are the civilians of Brest and surrounding country, and they come in and buy in packages of five and ten garments at a time. I think that some of them have laid in a stock that will be passed down from generation to generation. We have four million pairs of socks to sell, and my nose knows that they are good strong socks, too. Some socks!

We sell everything that a soldier wears, and everything that an army uses. I expect to get a good job as floor walker in a second hand store, or a ribbon counter job.

I expect that I will be here for some time to come as the Army of Occupation is about due, now, that the Germans have signed their intention of signing on the dotted line. I suppose that the country will be as dry as dust, soon. Is it true that they are pulling up all the grape vines in California, and planting ukelele bushes in their places?

Flag Covers Casket At Funeral of Ray B. Whitney, Ex-Soldier

A beautiful American flag and a wealth of beautiful flowers covered the casket of Ray B. Whitney, whose funeral was held yesterday afternoon at Smith & Tuthill's chapel. Floral tributes evidenced the high esteem in which he was held in this city, where Ray Whitney was born twenty-seven years ago.

Funeral services at the chapel and at the grave were in charge of Rev. W. L. H. Benton, rector of the Church of the Messiah, Episcopal. In the services, which throughout were unusually impressive, Rev. Benton was assisted by Rev. Frederick Cordes, pastor of Zion's Evangelical Church. James Nuckolls sang.

The death of Mr. Whitney was particularly sad, for he was a young man of sterling qualities. He was married less than a month before his death to Miss Clara Witt of this city. He served with the Third Engineers during the war, and was attending officers' training school at Camp Pike when the armistice was signed. He was transferred to Camp Pike the last of September.

Death came to him by drowning in the Sacramento river on July 4. Mr. and Mrs. Whitney were attending a picnic when Mr. Whitney and two other men started to swim across what appeared to be smooth water to a sandbar. They were caught in an undercurrent and eddy, and Mr. Whitney was drowned. His body was recovered three days later upon a tree trunk two miles below where he was drowned.

Mr. Whitney was the son of Mr. and Mrs. William S. Whitney of 506 East Washington, sister of Miss Ruth Whitney, a teacher at Placentia, and a nephew of Miss Justine Whitney, county recorder.

SCENT STRONG BUT COP ON WRONG TRAIL

FAIRMONT, W. Va., July 12.—While on her way home from Lumberton, where she had been visiting relatives, Virginia Ash, twelve-year-old daughter of the Rev. H. R. Ash, of Montana Mines, near here, was stopped by a prohibition officer, who insisted on searching her suitcase.

Finding nothing but articles of clothing the officer apologized to the little girl, saying: "I was looking for whiskey."

"Judging from the smell of your breath," said the little girl, "you must have found it somewhere."

The story was told by passengers on the same interurban car who arrived in this city.

COUNTRY CLUB IS INDUCING NEW RESIDENTS

Inquiry Shows Value of the Golf Links to City and County

The value of the Orange County Country Club as an advertising feature and means of drawing visitors to this community is evidenced in many ways and has been ever since it was instituted.

The latest demonstration is the receipt by the club of an inquiry for particulars on the club. The query is from Mrs. Gertrude Jelliffe Perry, of Southport, Conn.

Some weeks ago she wrote to the Chamber of Commerce for literature. It was sent. The literature carried reference to the country club. The result is the following letter from Mrs. Perry: Southport, Conn., July 3, '19, Orange County Country Club, Santa Ana, Cal.

Gents: We are expecting to spend this coming winter in California and possibly in Santa Ana. Will you kindly give me particulars regarding your club? Have you an 18-hole golf course, and what is the charge for the winter season, from January until May?

Yours truly,
MRS. GERTRUDE JELLIFFE PERRY.

Answered Promptly
The letter was answered promptly with information that cannot do otherwise than please the writer. In the country club schedule provision is made for taking care of temporary residents. The membership fee for the club is much less than in any other club in the state or elsewhere.

The club is attracting attention wherever golf is played and it is anticipated that when the new hotel is in operation, many clubs will come here to contest honors in a series of games with local players. In addition, many golfers will find the club as available to a residence for the winter or summer at the hotel.

"When we get that new hotel we will entertain many golf players and men interested in a club of this character," said George B. Shattuck today. "The lack of the proper hotel facilities have deterred many from coming here in the past. With it we probably will be in a position to arrange more club plays than we have in the past, particularly with clubs at some remote points, where accommodations here are necessary to their coming."

Local "stickers" this afternoon are engaged in a battle with members of the Coronado Club, with a fine trophy at stake. The cup has been offered by an enthusiast of Tustin for a series of games between Coronado and the Orange County Club teams. Eighteen holes is the play for this afternoon, with the players in pairs. Ten men compose the team from each club, with two from each pitted in the contests.

Today's game is the third in the series to be played and which will run through July and August. Each of the teams has won once. The first game was played with the Country Club going to San Diego, where it lost to the entertaining club. The second was played here and the locals won. With the record of the other two games as a criterion, Santa Ana is scheduled to win this afternoon, as each team has won when play was on its own links.

The local team is composed of Ed F. Farnsworth, Robt. E. Reid, I. M. Spruill, Hugh Smith, J. W. Tubbs, Lew H. Wallace, P. S. Wold, C. D. Holmes, C. G. Twist, and Geo. Shattuck.

Seven members of the visiting team came here last night, and during the evening were entertained at Shattuck's apartments by Shattuck and C. G. Twist.

SEBASTIAN'S WILL MOVE BLOCK WEST

For twelve years John Sebastian's store has been selling clothing, notions, shoes, etc., at 306 East Fourth street. This store has been a successful one and by continuous advertising he has attracted there an extensive trade. Now he has taken an opportunity to move into a better store building a block nearer the center of town, at 206 East Fourth, formerly occupied by Hayes' Variety Store, and is preparing to move about August 1 to his new location.

It's cheaper to sell goods at slashed prices than to pay for moving them, said Mr. Sebastian, and from now until the time to actually make the move he is conducting a removal sale on his entire stock, preferring to clean out the store and start again with a new stock, rather than paying the cost of moving his present stock.

"The cost tendency is up, up," said Mr. Sebastian today, "but during this sale the price movement at my store is down, down. Most of my stock was bought when prices were lower, so I am able while this stock lasts to offer goods at prices greatly under the present market prices elsewhere. Of course I will have to pay more for new goods that I buy and will have to charge more, but customers buying during this removal sale will get the benefit of the former low market prices."

TO BRIGHTEN FENDERS

Often the paint on motor car fenders is in good condition, but has a dull look, usually due to the fact that the varnish has worn off. It is a simple matter to brighten fenders of this kind, all that is necessary being to clean them thoroughly with gasoline and then, after wiping them dry, to give them a couple of coats of the best grade of automobile finishing varnish.

SHERIFF FAILS TO FIX GUILT IN SLAYING

Husband of Dead Bride Is Released After Being Under Grill

UKIAH, Cal., July 12.—Sheriff Ralph Byrnes frankly admitted today that the authorities of Mendocino county are not optimistic over their chances to apprehend the murderer of Mrs. Freda Knaesche.

"We will talk to Herman Knaesche again," he said. Herman is the husband of the murdered woman. They had been married two weeks.

"Do you think Herman Knaesche is guilty?" the sheriff was asked.

"There is a big one or two after his name," said Sheriff Byrnes. Byrnes said there was a period of 45 minutes when Knaesche was absent from his home, according to Knaesche's own story. If Knaesche is innocent of murdering his bride, said Byrnes, the murder must have occurred during that brief period.

Byrnes told the United Press he questioned Knaesche for about three hours yesterday and then released him. The sheriff said Knaesche clung steadily to his original story.

Knaesche was the chief mourner at the funeral yesterday. He is the chief object of attention here, where the citizens have been aroused by details of the most brutal murder in the county's history. Mrs. Knaesche was killed by two charges from a shotgun fired into her head and breast at close range. Her body was found by her husband when Knaesche returned to the ranch after a trip to Ukiah, two miles distant.

A crowd remained outside the sheriff's office while Knaesche, who is a returned soldier, was being questioned. No threats were made, however.

DOCTOR USES PLANE TO MAKE LONG TRIPS

BEAVER CITY, Neb., July 12.—Dr. to Herndon, Kan., 55 miles distant, airplane here recently purchased for making long professional calls, flew 60 miles to McCook, Neb., one morning to perform two surgical operations. The trip was made in 50 minutes. He returned the same way afterward.

Dr. Brewster completed his first long distance flight recently. Leaving Beaver City at 2 p. m., he flew to Herndon, Kansas, 55 miles distant, performed a surgical operation on a patient whose skull had been fractured in an oil derrick accident, and returned via the aerial route before sundown. His actual flying time to Herndon and return was less than two hours.

REDONDO BEACH, July 12.—The increase in the salaries of all city officials and employees to conform with the increase in the cost of living has been recommended by Mayor James R. Richardson to the board of trustees.

RUSSIAN CHURCH NOT WANTED BY BOLSHEVIKI

Reds Blame Religious Folk With Trying to Stir Up Counter Revolt

By FRANK J. TAYLOR
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK, July 11.—The church is the only institution in Russia which the bolsheviks insist upon operating on a capitalistic basis. The bolsheviks threw out the church, as a state proposition, when they came into power and seized everything else. Formerly the church and state were closely allied, the state supporting the thousands and thousands of mosques.

Russia probably had more churches per square mile than any other land in the world. In Moscow there are more churches per capita than there are movie theaters in Los Angeles, and the city block that does not have more than one is difficult to find.

It was a hard blow to the church when the bolsheviks got control of Russia. The bolsheviks are church-haters. According to them, the church was the means by which the czar regime duped the people. Religious holidays and religious ceremonies gave the priests a tremendous influence over the superstitious peasant.

The bolsheviks consider it a wonderful accomplishment, the abolition of religious holidays, which they said prevented the Russian from getting anything done. There were as many as two or three saints' birthdays to commemorate each week, according to the bolsheviks. The churchmen retaliate that the bolsheviks have not only cut off the holidays, but have also stopped work.

Sever Church, State
Following the fall of the Kerensky government, the churchmen doubled their efforts to stir up counter revolution, the bolsheviks say. The latter retaliated by completely severing church and state, and forcing the priests to rely on contributions from congregations for support.

Some churchmen adjusted themselves to the new conditions, others went to work, and still others are marking time in prison cells for being over-zealous against the bolshevik government. Congregations have fallen off, though many churches are open. Incomes are limited to what the congregation cares to donate. They are now on the same financial basis as the American churches.

The tithe system is abolished, and no church can levy taxes. The bolsheviks further cut off the privilege of educating children, which was formerly done largely by the churchmen. Religion is separated from education.

In Russia it was the custom to worship the bones of saints, supposedly buried in churches throughout the land. The bolsheviks have partly completed a census of the bones of saints which is enlightening.

It shows already, say the bolsheviks, that certain saints of considerable renown had as many as twenty legs and more arms and heads, according to the number of churches which claim interred members of saints' bodies. Investigation of the tombs proved that many kinds of fakes had been committed by the priests to lead the simple-minded Russian to believe that he was worshipping a certain saint's bones. In some tombs the priests had stored money, food and wine, thinking the bolsheviks would never find it there.

Ruthless Inquiries
The bolsheviks have conducted these investigations ruthlessly, and are giving them wide publicity. "Movies" are taken of many of the exposures, as far as the shortage of films will permit. Films for making movies is probably the article which the bolsheviks most need right now, considering its value in propaganda work.

All churches have not ceased to exist. In Moscow it is estimated that half of them are operating on the "capitalistic" basis and as independent institutions, and are fairly successful.

Many of the churchmen are trying to adjust themselves to the new conditions and are preaching a more modern thought. In this they are following the example of the Jewish rabbis, who have been more independent and advanced than the Russian churchmen. Some of the priests, adjusting themselves more than quickly to the bolshevik regime, have become apostles of Lenin.

Practically all of the churches have been unmoored physically, and in Moscow their domes are still dazzling and golden in the skyline. Many of them are covered with gold plate, and a bolshevik proclamation prohibits anyone from removing the precious metal.

TOMORROW'S SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

PRACTICAL NOTES PREPARED FOR THE REGISTER

By Cal. Ogburn

Lesson for July 13, Matt. 28:18-20; Acts 8:34-40, Baptism.

"All authority hath been given unto me in heaven and on earth. Go ye therefore, and make disciples of all the nations."—vs. 18, 19. From a human standpoint a stranger thing never was known than the giving of this commission. Consider it thoughtfully. Matthew says, "The eleven disciples went into Galilee, unto the mountain where Jesus had appointed them."

Here, then, in some obscure place in the insignificant, Rome-rudden, Jew-dispised province of Galilee a man, who, seemingly, had failed ignominiously in what he had undertaken, has gathered about him a mere handful of his former disciples, not one of whom has either money, prestige, power, or influential friends. To these, all of whom had forsaken him when he needed their presence and help most, he now gives a commission that is to revolutionize the world socially, morally, religiously, economically.

This last score of followers of the Nazarene Carpenter, without a single qualification that shrewd men would have thought necessary for the success of such an undertaking, accepted this responsibility and went forth to begin a conquest unlike anything the world ever had known. That this could be done victoriously, with the means at their command, is still, to all thoughtful men, the wonder of the ages.

In some way Jesus imparted to these feeble, faint-hearted men an enthusiasm that never failed or grew weary. And of all the miracles that Christ wrought, this is the greatest.

The burden of their message to Jew and Gentile alike was nothing more nor less than this: Commission him—himself—who he was, what he had said and done, what he still required and commanded. And this strange story, "unto Jews a stumbling-block, and unto Gentiles foolishness," did marvelous things. In time it wrought the downfall of Rome herself—proud, cruel, sensual, selfish, sinful—that sat on her seven hills, and from her throne of being ruled the world.

Meet Many Enemies
When these men went out to tell the world about Jesus Christ, they met an enemy in every man and woman with whom they came in contact. Some of them, to be sure, greater enemies than others were, but all more or less at enmity against them. They went out to declare righteousness, but found "none good, no, not one." There was a pronounced foe in every fornicator, an adversary in every adulterer—and the heathen world was confirmed in licentiousness. They had an antagonist in every thief, murderer, drunkard, idolater, hypocrite, miser, scandal-monger—in short, the hand of every wrong-doer was against them.

They had not a single ally, nor could they form an alliance with any religious, social or other organization to further the cause they advocated. And yet, they succeeded! This, then, is the practical conclusion: There is a power greater than evil in all of its forms, and that power is the subtle, insinuating influence of the gospel of Jesus Christ.

The eleven were commissioned to declare this gospel, a part of which was repentance and baptism, and they did it without fear or favor.

Repentance had been the burden of every Jewish prophet's message to his nation and people. To the Jews therefore it was no new thing, but, save Jonah's terse message to the Ninevites, which implied rather than required repentance, the Gentile world had never before been called to repent. But now, according to Luke's version of the commission, "Repentance and remission of sins should be preached in his name unto all the nations." This marked a new era in the world's moral advancement. And it still is needed. For when two "heathens"—pronounced, "heathens"—can make brutes blush by being outdone in brutally beating each other for the amusement of other "heathens," as was done recently and "most gloriously" and to a "championship finish," the commission of the Carpenter of Nazareth should be emphasized by his followers with a vigor it has not known since the days of the apostles. Query: How far is it from modern Toledo to ancient Rome?

WORKMEN'S ARMY BUILDING NEW AUTO PLANT

Studebaker Rushing Work on Gigantic Factories at South Bend

There has been greatly increased activity in the new construction work on the Studebaker plants.

The huge sub-assembly and stock building which was started in April and the foundations have been rushed.

Great quantities of structural steel and reinforcing steel are being shipped and being rolled at the mills for this work. Material for concrete is coming in every day and this great four-story structure which is but one of the entire group of ten buildings will then be pushed through to completion before December 1st.

The final assembly building, which will be 1100 feet in length, has been started. There are 539 men at work.

Two towers 145 feet in height of 8x8 timbers have been constructed to facilitate the handling of a large amount of concrete which enters into such a modern type of factory construction. These towers will be used for raising concrete from the mixers, located at the base of the tower, to a point where it can be distributed by a spouting system to all parts of the building.

Provision is being made to deliver all raw materials, such as sand, gravel and cement by car loads to the mixers, thereby eliminating a great deal of handling which would otherwise be necessary.

To handle the forty cars of material which arrive daily it has been found necessary to purchase a fifty-ton locomotive. To do the additional work called for in this building program, machinery which has already been purchased for this plant, and which is scheduled to arrive by the 1st of August, or the 1st of September, amounts to one-half million dollars.

This is practically 20 per cent of the machinery tool equipment, which it will be necessary to purchase for delivery before the 1st of December, at which time both the sub-assembly and building and final assembly building are scheduled to be complete.

HAS SLOGAN AND TILTS CIGAR LIKE BARNEY

H. D. Traveller, county distributor for Oldfield tires, has adopted Barney Oldfield's personal slogan in a unique way. In big white letters on the cover of his extra tire, carried on the back of his sporty Hupmobile, are the words, "You Know Me—Barney Oldfield."

"Some of 'em take me for Barney," commented Traveller, who, if he doesn't resemble Oldfield, at least tilts his cigar as does Barney and Uncle Joe Cannon.

SHAKEUP OF POLICE TO FOLLOW ARREST

DES MOINES, Ia., July 12.—A shake-up in the Des Moines police force is expected following the indictment and arrest of Police Sergeant Charles Hall for alleged owning and selling of intoxicants.

The indictment and arrest came on the heels of an investigation by federal operatives and agents from Governor Harding's office.

Investigators hinted that other sensational evidence against the police department would be made public soon.

the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Ghost." v. 19. Baptism has long been a hackneyed subject, and it is not within the province of these notes to "hack" it again, in any theological or controversial sense. It may be said however, that in the matter of baptism as in all other things Christ requires, every person should endeavor to know, from a careful study of the New Testament, just what is demanded of him, and then unhesitatingly yield obedience accordingly.

Teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I commanded you." v. 20. It is now a well established fact that he gets most that is enjoyable and otherwise profitable out of life who conscientiously observes the teachings of Christ, and also that he puts most into the lives of others that is of value to them. This two-fold demonstration proves that Christ was no mere theorist, nor an egotist, but a far-seeing, practical teacher of men, who lived in advance of his day and generation and, for that matter, is still far ahead of the professedly "Christian world."

Generally the people who look backward are pessimists, bemoaning the fate that has befallen them and the evil days in which they live, but it would be profitable even to the most extreme optimist to review frequently the teachings of Christ and then put them into practice.

No idealist will ever get beyond the point where the commandments of Christ may be disregarded. Advancement in all commendable ways still waits on the leadership of the Man of Galilee. One of Napoleon's biographers said of him: "He was a man without a model and without a shadow." If in any sense this was true of the little Corsican, it is a thousand-fold more applicable to the Carpenter of Nazareth, whose sayings surpass in moral worth the accumulated wisdom of all heathen teachers.

What Christ commanded to be beneficial must be observed by being put into practice. For instance, he taught that one should not only forgive seven times, but seventy times seven. All Bible students are familiar with this statement of his, but alas, how very few, when put to the test, practice it.

The one sure way to tell what a tire is worth as it stands in the store of a dealer, is to divide its price in dollars and cents by the miles of the adjustment that backs it up.

Then square it on the GOODRICH SQUARE, Standard Measure of True Tire Value.

Square its price against Goodrich List Prices on the short branch of THE SQUARE.

Square its mileage adjustment against the Goodrich More-Mileage Adjustment on the long branch of THE SQUARE—6,000 miles for Fabrics; 8,000 for Silvertown Cords.

If you pay more than the Goodrich List Prices—always the same to you, and everywhere—the tire overcharges you. If you take less than the Goodrich More-Mileage Adjustment, you short-mileage yourself.

SUPPLY AND DEMAND

One is inclined to join in the clamor—now amounting to a roar in England—for government control of food prices. And unquestionably government everywhere should come down like a thousand of bricks on the heads of the profiteers. But fundamentally always and ultimately now, the supply and demand will govern the prices of food and of everything else.

It is a law that regulates the prices of everything in the world, from a spool of thread to an Axminster carpet; from an acre of land in Kansas to a lot on Broadway in New York City. When strawberries are scarce we must pay twenty-five cents a box for them; when they are plentiful we can buy six boxes for a quarter.

There was recently reported a sale in Arizona of a seven-week-old bull calf for one thousand dollars. That was because of his pedigree. If his parents had been common range cattle he might not have brought twenty dollars. The supply of his future brethren would naturally be limited to one in each year, and with five hundred stock raisers competing for the goods, one thousand dollars may not be considered an extreme price.

The law of supply and demand has an especial application to articles that can never be duplicated, and to articles the quantity of which can never be increased. There are paintings by modern artists that, so far as treatment and beauty and finish and all the qualities which go to make up the value of a painting are concerned, are as attractive to the eye as any that ever came from the brush of Raphael or Rubens. There are violins now being manufactured that will produce as sweet sounds as any made by Amati or Stradivarius. Yet the paintings of the old masters and the fiddles of the old makers sell for one hundred times as much as the paintings of living artists and the violins made today.

This is because Raphael and Rubens, Amati and Stradivarius are dead, while, as the wealth of the world increases, the number of people who are ambitious to own the works of the old masters, and are able to purchase them, constantly grows.

Many years ago the French government paid 500,000 francs for Murillo's painting of the Immaculate Conception, which now hangs in the gallery of the Louvre. It doubtless has a spiritual beauty and a spiritual meaning to the spiritual minded—or some of them. But to artistically uneducated and gross material eyes it is only a painting of a beautiful woman, surrounded by a jolt of angels floating in the clouds without the aid of an aeroplane or other visible means of support. Yet it was probably worth what was paid for it because Murillo is dead and there can never be another painting by him.

The law of a fixed limit of supply applies inexorably to the works of nature. Cities may decline or die and other cities be built, but the mountains and the plains, the rivers and the seas remain as they were at the dawn of creation. Man may improve and beautify them and make them more accessible, but he never can create any more of them.

Where else in all the land than in Southern California can be found roses and orange blossoms and ripe strawberries growing in the open air in midwinter? Where else than here can be found streams that never knew the clasp of a crystal bracelet, and valleys that were never covered with the white blanket of the snow? Where else are there perpetual blooming flowers and vales like the lawn of Paradise?

"Sweet fields arranged in living green and rivers of delight."

Put your savings in real estate. It will make no difference what prices you pay. Your purchase will increase in value every day.

FACTS AND PRICES

Food riots are taking place in many countries. So far they have not been long-continued or of great magnitude. But the mere fact that in any place people can be hungry to the rebellious point indicates that something is wrong with the world.

There is just one fundamental reason for high prices and short living. It is under-production. Profiteering exists, of course, and should be dealt with sternly. But profiteering can succeed only in a time of under-production.

For five years a large part of the world ceased to produce articles of utility in order that it might produce the means of destruction. The world cannot turn berserk, throw up his job and smash furniture for five years without paying the penalty.

There is just one remedy for this state of things. The world, sobered down, must turn to and work over time until the deficit of the five years of war is made up. There is only one way in which a deficit of work can be made up. That is by working.

To disdain one job after another because it does not offer all the advantages one might desire, does not help out the deficit. Taking a job and working hard at it while keeping a weather eye out for something better does help.

It is not wise that any person should work so long or so hard at his regular job that he grows overtired or stale. But it is well that everyone should work a just and sensible number of hours per day at some creative task. That is what keeps the world from getting further behind. Every bit of work done beyond that helps fill the hole.

Growing something in a garden no bigger than a window box helps. An hour or two a week of study along some useful line helps. No time spent in study or research is ever lost. Study produces the power to produce.

The woman who puts the new washers on her own kitchen faucets helps. She releases the plumber for work on the new house down the street. The man who puts in the needed shelf or tool rack gives the carpenter that much more time for the new house.

Keeping well helps the world. Keeping sane and happy helps the world.

Prices will not go down—nor will we have enough extra dollars to meet them—until production has filled the hole. Kicking about prices does no good. Nothing does any good, but putting one's shoulder to the wheel.

AID FOR WOUNDED

Four thousand American men suffered amputations as a result of their war service. The annual toll in American industrial plants is 26,000.

The so-called reconstruction of the maimed was the topic of much conversation during the war, and has been since its conclusion. Careful study has been made of the subject. Great improvements in the construction of artificial limbs have been made, machinery has been especially designed for the use of the crippled, old industries have been adapted and new ones developed to help these wounded patriots back to their places among the normal ones of earth.

Nobody could wish that it should be otherwise, for our debt to these men is great. But assuredly our industrial army, which presents so many more cases needing the same sort of aid, should also reap the benefits of all this increased knowledge.

The development of public and private organizations to extend the work among our crippled soldiers of industry is an urgent duty.

In every walk of life the prevention of accident should have first consideration; but as long as human kind is human, accidents still will happen, and to their unfortunate victims every modern aid should be accessible.

"Dragon's Teeth"

Sacramento Union

The Tages Zeitung newspaper of Berlin is responsible for the following utterance:

"Clemenceau, Lloyd George and Wilson and their accessories have sown dragon's teeth of eternal enmity."

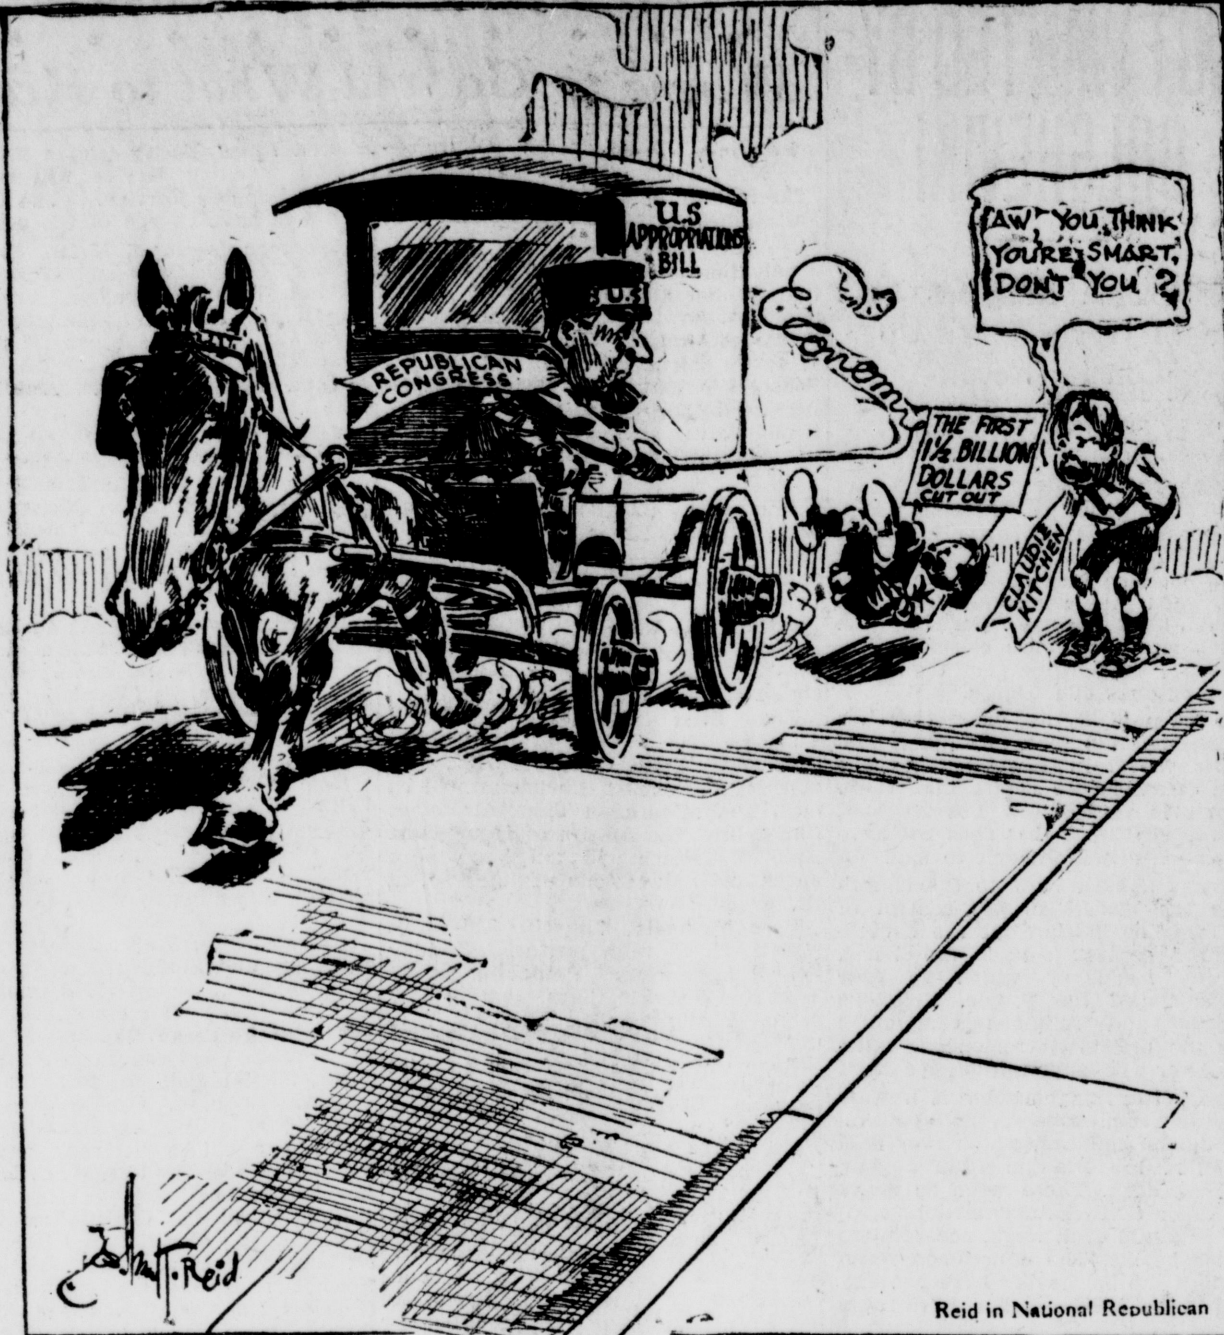

The Tages Zeitung is mistaken. Years before "Clemenceau, Lloyd George and Wilson and their accessories" assembled in Versailles to confer concerning what remedial treatment could be given to a battle-torn world, those dragon's teeth of eternal enmity were sown. They were sown when the Hun, in violation of every legal and moral obligation, took up the sword against all mankind, determined either to rule or ruin.

Could Belgium forget or do less than hate when her men were dragged into slavery, her women into viler slavery, and even her little children were not left unmaimed? Could France cultivate the spirit of love as she looked down upon her ruined cities, her devastated mines, her willfully destroyed farming lands and the wreck of her treasured art? Could the world look in friendliness on the work of the Hun, as cruelly often witnessed in the bombing of Red Cross hospitals and the murder of their nurses and patients, the sinking of merchant ships and the drowning of their passengers, the violation of every law which upward-aspiring man has set between himself and barbarism?

No, the dragon-teeth of a hatred were not sown by or at the Versailles conference. That conference did what it might in imperfect human way to dig up and destroy those dragon-teeth of hatred, but the task it essayed was one that can be accomplished only by all-liberating time and the better impulses of mankind. The dragon-teeth were sown too deeply and too widely to leave room for hope that the world shall not be afflicted by their evil fruitage through generations yet to come and go.

The trouble with the Hun, as exemplified in the Tages Zeitung and many other of his publications, is that having most barbarously attempted to fail in his attempt, he is not content to pay the price of his folly and iniquity, but, his hands still red with the blood of mankind, he demands of it a clean bill of health—and he cannot have it while the dragon-teeth of hatred he, and only he, sowed still germinate in the soil of the earth and yield their evil fruitage.

CUT BEHIND!

They Get Quick Action

Here is a contribution to the advertising literature of the day in the form of a folder put out by the ad bureau of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association:

My stenographer is an intelligent young woman.

Women do most of the buying and advertisers strive to interest our wives, mothers and sisters.

Remembering this, I asked her what she thought about various advertisements. She said:

"Ads in the newspapers always make me think of quick action. Other kinds of ads make me think of going through a museum—I am interested in everything I see, but I don't want to do anything but look."

Striking answer—wasn't it?

Newspaper advertisements are used to get action.

Action with the consumer who buys across the counter.

Action with the retailer who knows the consumer will buy.

The whole atmosphere of the newspaper is action. The news of the hour, which it prints daily radiates life and activity—things done and doing today.

Local merchants tell in the newspaper's columns interesting things to bring customers to the stores today and tomorrow.

"Do it now" is the keynote.

This is one of the many reasons for the supremacy of the daily newspaper as an advertising medium.

Worth While Verses

THE BOASTER.

If the last blissful star should fade and wither,
If one by one
Orion and the Pleiades crash and crumble;
The lordly sun

Be turned away, a beggar, all his triumphs
Gone down in doom,
Wandering unregarded through the cosmos,
None giving him room.

Then would I shout defiant to the whirlwinds;
Boastfully cry,
"Go wreck the world, its towering hills and waters!
But, even I,

"Whose body was flung out upon the dunghill
With weeds to rot,
Still keep my soul unshaken by the ruin
That harms me not!

"True, I have fled from many a shameful battle,
Did cringe and cower
Before my foes; but who can ever rob me
Of one great hour?"

For joy ran through me like a silver trumpet;
About my head
The tiny flowers flapped in the breeze like banners
Of royal red;

And suddenly the seven deeps of heaven
Were cloven apart,
When love stood in your eyes and shone and trembled
Within your heart.

—Theodore Maynard in "Today."

GROANS AND GRINS

"Tell me, please, are baby clothes on this floor?" asked the shopper, quoted in Judge. "Madam, if you refers to infants' paraphernalia, dey am on de floor above," responded the elevator man.

A Red Cross visitor was making his rounds of the soldier patients in a government recuperation hospital when a colored soldier greeted him with, "Say, boss, what is they keeping me here in this hospital for—a souvenir?"

One of the questions asked in a recent examination at a school for small boys was: "Who are the Big Four?" The ready answer of one youngster was: "Charlie Chaplin, Douglas Fairbanks, Mary Pickford and William S. Hart."

OBSERVATIONS

Business activity is being resumed with a rush. Nothing can stop it—not even Congress.

Postal rates may have been lowered, but it costs just as much as ever to stamp your foot.

"Berlin Press Shows Enmity to Visitors," headlines the New York World. Well, did anybody expect Germany to love her enemies?

Germany is going to ratify that peace treaty right away. And then some United Senators are going to be awful mad at Germany.

A New York policeman was knocked down and robbed in a subway station. Is there no sportsmanship among robbers, that they pick on a New York cop?

COTTON PICKERS IN SOUTHLAND ARE NEEDED

Huge Crops In Imperial and Palo Verde Valleys to Be Harvested

LOS ANGELES, Cal., July 12.—Cotton planters of the two great desert reclamation projects of Southern California are sending out an S. O. S. for labor.

From both Imperial and Palo Verde valleys is coming the first note of what promises to be an agonized wail for aid in gathering one of the greatest cotton crops in the state's history.

Cotton prices are higher already than at any time since the Civil war. Cotton seed prices promise to make the by-product a rival to the lint itself and experts who have inspected the California crop have declared it to be in better condition than those in any other state in the United States, but desert farmers fear they may be prevented from realizing their rosy prospects by the dearth of pickers.

It is estimated that nearly 15,000 persons will be needed in the Imperial Valley this year to harvest the crop there, while Palo Verde Valley is ready to put in its bid for five thousand hands.

Part of the huge number of workers required by Imperial will be divided with those farmers on the Mexican side of the valley. Reliable estimates show that 45,000 acres have been planted in cotton on the American side, while over 90,000 acres are dedicated to King Cotton on the Carranza side of the line.

It is predicted 21,000 bales of cotton will be raised in Palo Verde valley this year. This estimate gives a slight idea of the spectacular manner in which this valley has developed in three years, when, it is known that only 1631 bales were grown in the Riverside county project back in 1915.

Cotton pickers are paid by the pound picked, and it is expected that the price will start at from $1.50 to $2.00 a hundred pounds this year. An inexperienced person usually picks from 150 to 200 pounds a day, while a few days' practice nets 200 to 300 pounds a day. Experienced pickers average 250 to 400 pounds daily. Expert gleaners pull 500 pounds a day.

It is nearly 200 miles from Los Angeles to Imperial Valley, while Palo Verde Valley is 250 miles from the Southern California metropolis. Steps are under way for a publicity campaign to attract laborers to these valleys in September.

SAY THAT SOLDIER ADMITS SHOOTING

E. Stanley Bender, soldier at the Arcadia Balloon School, arrested yesterday, is reported by officers as having admitted firing the shot that struck Deputy Sheriff Modie of Los Angeles Thursday evening. It is declared that this statement frees William Crissman of Santa Ana, a boy who recently enlisted at the balloon school as a bagger, of the suspicion of having fired the shot that struck Modie in the arm.

Modie was hit during a running fight in which three Los Angeles deputies were chasing an automobile, alleged to have been stolen from Miss Elizabeth Jones of South Pasadena, and in which two soldiers were riding.

Complaints were issued in Los Angeles yesterday charging the soldiers with grand larceny.

GUITAR MAKER IS IN "CLOVER" IN MAXWELL

Takes Family on Coast Business Trips at Small Expense

Making steel guitars and driving long distances by automobile are the two hobbies of Chris Knutsen. Chris is known from Mexico to Canada for the wonderfully sweet-toned guitars which he manufactures. He is also known for his judgment in selecting good motor cars and his skill in driving over the mountain grades which prevail at many points in Northern California, Oregon and Washington.

"As an evidence of long distance motoring, Mr. Knutsen has just arrived at Los Angeles, after driving from Seattle in seven days, covering a distance of 1600 miles in his Maxwell touring car," says G. H. Christian, Santa Ana agent for the Maxwell. "The remarkable feature of the trip was that there were seven grown-up people in the car, and they made the drive at a total car expense of $21 from Seattle to Los Angeles, as compared with $282 for seven railroad fares."

"In proclaiming his skill as a long distance motorist, Chris made the following remarks:

"My steel guitars are known to every musician in the West and about every so often I have to make the trip up the coast and much prefer to do it by automobile and have my family with me. We looked over various cars before deciding on the Maxwell and made our selection of that car because of its sturdy construction and well-known desert and mountain going ability. I am the heaviest one in my family and weigh 210, but my wife, daughter and son-in-law each weigh 170, while my other two daughters and granddaughter average 130 pounds each, a total of 1152 pounds, which is considerably more than the average seven-passenger car is supposed to carry. Even at that, we had a very comfortable trip down from Seattle because I utilized the tonneau room in the Maxwell by putting in two extra side chairs carried by hooked arms running over the doors."

MOTHERHOOD

So short a time at my command,
These children that I hold to-night,
God give me grace to understand,
Wisdom to guide their steps aright,
That I may be throughout the land
A lamp unto their feet for light.

So short a time do small hands cling
With confidence of babyhood,
Let me not idly dream the thing,
But live the noble part I should,
That henceforth from such mothering
They shall instinctively seek good.

So short a time for my embrace,
For love, cheer, comfort, lullabies,
God help me hallow the brief space
That turns to gold each sacrifice.

So surely does a mother's grace
Build her soul's mansion in the skies.

Painting at Laguna

Mr. and Mrs. William Paxton passed through Santa Ana today on their way to Laguna, where Mr. Paxton will be doing painting. He is a graduate of Santa Ana high school, and for several years he has been teacher of mechanical drawing and art in the Los Angeles high school and Junior College. This summer he is teaching at the University of California summer school in Los Angeles. Last night Mr. and Mrs. Paxton visited relatives at Mr. Paxton at Orange.

Relief Corps Tea

The Relief Corps tea of yesterday afternoon at G. A. R. hall was a most enjoyable affair.

The newly installed electric fans tempered the atmosphere, so that no one suffered from the heat, and the appropriate light refreshments assisted in making conditions most favorable for the enjoyment of the social hour of music, speaking and guessing games.

Mrs. Fredda Barger, pianist, led in singing some old familiar songs, so popular with the G. A. R. and also favored with a charming solo. Little Miss Helen Watson gave an amusing reading, receiving a cordial encore, to which that very young lady gracefully responded. Short story-telling talks by a number of comrades were much appreciated, and a guessing game closed the program.

The receipts were very gratifying, and will insure a good dinner on "Bean Day" at the encampment.

At Beach for Week-End

Several parties went to Balboa for the week-end. Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Huff and Mr. and Mrs. Park Roger, who will occupy the Huff cottage, Misses Muriel Cravath and Gwendolyn Hoyle went down last evening to remain over until Sunday, and Mr. and Mrs. Homer Robinson and Mr. and Mrs. Jules Hilton and Eugene Trago and Donald Smith went down yesterday.

Masquerade Party

Miss Lucille Loggins entertained a number of her friends last evening at a merry masquerade party at her home on South Sycamore street.

The guests were all schoolmates of the hostess, so the evening together was even more enjoyable as the summer vacation will take many of them out of the city at different times. Some very pretty costumes were in evidence and with the appropriate and pretty decorations, bright lights and merry voices, the scene was a pretty one.

The popular indoor games were played, and in the guessing contest prizes were awarded to Miss Meryl Allender and Voris Robinson.

Miss Lucille's mother, Mrs. George Loggins, assisted her in entertaining, and in serving delectable refreshments.

The guests were: Misses Iris Head, Louise Van Dien, Ruth Vieira, Meryl Allender, Marion Preston, Evelyn Andre of Brawley, and Messrs. Harold Mathews, Voris Robinson, Eddie Linsbarger, Harris Cloyes, Harold Vieira, and Victor Walker.

Week-End House Party

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Paine, Jr., are at Balboa this week. Their vacation comes to an end Sunday with a week-end house party of friends from Los Angeles.

Covers were laid also for Mr. and Mrs. George Smith, Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Jayne and Miss Alice Rowe of Salt Lake City, who came down to attend Mrs. Ball's wedding and will be with Mrs. Jayne the remainder of the summer. Miss Rowe is a national officer of the Daughters of the Revolution.

D of V. to Meet

The Daughters of Veterans will meet in regular session at G. A. R. hall Monday afternoon and a full attendance is desired as a number of new members will be received and other important work taken up.

At Camp Wilkie

The Santa Ana boys returning from the Y. M. C. A. camp at Camp Wilkie, Catalina, bring glowing accounts of the days spent there.

Quite a number of the boys qualified for life-savers. Thirteen in camp made it. The two successful local boys were James Smalley and Douglas Keech. The qualifications are quite difficult to pass as the boys must be able to swim 200 yards, 50 yards with their hands and fifty without their hands, dive for a rock, tow a person, resuscitation, row, and swim 20 yards with their clothes on.

A large number tried out for the swimming but the organization gives, but only twenty-nine were successful; among them were Gale Harmon, Douglas Keech, Erle Simon, Ralph Harmon, Ralph Raitt, James Smalley and Ralph Lewis of Santa Ana. To get the button the boys had to be able to dive, swim fifty yards and twenty yards on their backs.

Six boys were taught to swim while they were there. They had no accidents to speak of and of the four goats caught, three were taken home. Vestley Jayne and Gale Harmon brought their home and are bringing them up on bottles. One has become quite attached to his guardian and has proven himself a veritable "Mary's Little Lamb." One goat ate.

Nine or ten people took advantage of visitors' day.

Visit From Old Friends

Mr. and Mrs. James Buchanan and son of Centralia, Wash., who are touring the country, called on Mr. and Mrs. George Balderston yesterday afternoon. The Buchanans and Mr. and Mrs. Balderston were neighbors at Cripple Creek, Colo., over eighteen years ago.

Head of this city, has charge of the general arrangement committee in Orange county.

The Santa Ana sub-committee is composed of the following: S. M. Reinhaus, Miss Etta M. Conkle, Miss Margaret C. Gallup, Dr. and Mrs. Flood, The Anaheim sub-committee is: Miss E. K. Rea, A. H. Heying and Charles Shindler; Fullerton, E. J. Marks, Dr. Jesse Chilton, G. H. Gobar.

The event will take place in the beautiful gardens surrounding the Normal school, and will begin at 6 o'clock. During the service of dinner, which will be served on the lawn in front of Millsap Hall, a very gay and pleasing carol show will be presented. Honor guests who will attend with President Wheeler, include Drs. and Mmes. Monroe E. Deutsch, E. C. and Dorothea Moore, and Dr. Millsap.

Part of the program to be given at the dinner will be an orchestra selection, song by the Orpheus Four, and special college songs. The yell leader will lead the old college yells; dance, Valska Foss; Miss Ruth Parkell will sing selections from the opera, "Pirates Among the Shepherds," composed by L. W. Curtis, U. C. 1901; brief speeches by Dean Deussen, Dr. E. C. Moore and President Wheeler. Guernsey Newlin, former president of the Los Angeles chapter of the Red Cross, will be toastmaster.

PATROLMAN ARRESTED FOR GRAND JURY QUIZ

LOS ANGELES, July 12.—H. M. Holbrook, patrolman of the Long Beach police department was arrested today by a special investigator of the district attorney's office and brought here to appear before the county grand jury which is to investigate charges of extortion which recently caused a flurry in the Long Beach police department.

The charges grew out of the arrest, release and rearrest of J. G. Papadakis of San Diego and a woman named Florence Vinye, charged with violating the Long Beach rooming house ordinance.

Papadakis swore to the charge against Holbrook. It was reported at the district attorney's office that other arrests are imminent.

15 COPS CHASE MAN ALONG L. A. STREETS

LOS ANGELES, July 12.—Early risers in the downtown district today thought they were witnessing the filming of a new movie comedy. But they weren't.

It was just the police—fifteen cops all told—trying to catch M. D. Hunter, charged with petty larceny.

Hunter was first arrested after a one man chase staged by Patrolman Simpson, on Los Angeles street. Taken to the police station, Hunter made a dash for liberty while standing before the desk sergeant. Simpson gave chase. Out poured more and more cops until 15 of the department foot racers were on the trail.

It was a four blocks' chase before Hunter became terrified by a fusillade of shots fired into the air and surrendered.

No Meal Tickets, Thank You, Say Bachelor Girls

"We don't want any meal tickets, thank you, and we are not running a matrimonial bureau. Mere man is farthest from our thoughts. What we want is four nice girls who have to pay all their own expenses to co-operate with us in swatting the H. C. of L."

There it is, full of pep and spunk. This is the reply of the young ladies who are forming the "Bachelor Girls' Club" to the suggestion in Thursday night's Register that Cupid might get in some of his fine work in connection with the bachelor girls' and bachelor men's clubs now being formed and bring about that happy condition of "two minds with but a single thought," etc.

When the reporter spilled that Cupid stuff he got off on the wrong foot. "Just as if we didn't already have plenty of chances to wed if we wanted to," was the comment.

"We are in earnest in our plans for a 'Bachelor Girls' Club,'" said the girls, "and we want to run it on the idea of a sorority house, the members to pay equally after all the expenses have been figured. This plan has been worked out in larger cities and it should work out in Santa Ana. We're not looking for a perpetual meal ticket, nor are we running a matrimonial bureau. We are capable of earning our own livelihood and thoroughly enjoy it. What we DO want is a good old-fashioned roomy house where a good home-cooked meal will be awaiting us and a nice cheerful housekeeper to keep things in order. Of course we all expect to do our bit. We want the freedom of a home, where we can have music if we desire, callers if we wish, and make fudge or chocolate cake if our appetites crave it."

"Girls, if you are interested write us in care of Box F, Santa Ana post office, so that we may arrange a meeting and talk it over."

Loss of Appetite

As a general rule there is nothing serious about a loss of appetite, and if you skip a meal or only eat two meals a day for a few days you will soon have a relish for your meals when meal time comes. Bear in mind that at least five hours should always elapse between meals so as to give the food ample time to digest and the stomach a period of rest before a second meal is taken. Then if you eat no more than you crave and take a reasonable amount of outdoor exercise every day you will not need to worry about your appetite. When the loss of appetite is caused by constipation as is often the case, that should be corrected at once. A dose of Chamberlain's Tablets will do it.—Advertisement.

My friends advised me to quit after July 1st, but I couldn't see it. It would not be right to close the most beautiful Cafe in Southern California. So I got busy, and engaged Mr. E. G. Then I engaged Monsieur Alfred Verriere, formerly in charge of the kitchen of the late King Luitpold, of Belgium, and recently chef at the Los Angeles Athletic Club. His instructions are: Nothing is too good for my patrons.

RAID ON MINORS IS FORECAST BY RICKEY

President of Cardinals Says
Divorce Will Not Injure
the Majors

By H. C. HAMILTON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
NEW YORK, July 12.—A raid on the minor leagues in the form of purchases of small league clubs, which will be turned into "farms" owned outright by the farmers, was forecast here today by Branch Rickey, president and manager of the St. Louis Cardinals.

"The minors are killing again the famous goose that lays the golden eggs," said Rickey. "The majors will not be injured by the divorce, but I greatly fear the divorce asked and granted by the minors will only lead to a plea for a reconciliation on the part of the plaintiffs."

"Abolition of the so-called optional agreement between big and small league clubs has had no effect. I have in my office six agreements with minor league clubs, not exactly like the agreements we used to make, but still agreements, and they are satisfactory to me. I now ask the minor league owner for an agreement of sale, to be fulfilled at a certain date and the player will be returned to me at that time."

Rickey, who is a close student of baseball law and a recognized authority, declared the minors are "slapping the public in the face" by denying the right of draft to the majors and then allowing their own members to draft among themselves.

"Any young man, in any business, has the inherent right of advancement without being retarded by his employer," Rickey said.

BRAZIL SEEKING GAMES WITH AMERICANS

Outdoor Sports Taking Great
Hold on People of Country

BY LAWRENCE S. HAAS
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

RIO DE JANEIRO, July 12.—Amateur, competitive athletic sports have arrived in Brazil, and they have come to stay. The new Brazilian team was brought out strongly during the past month, when the Brazilian athletes cleaned up in the entire program of the South American Sports Confederation held here. Brazil was returning champion in all events, swimming, water polo, and association football, the national major sport.

The victors defeated the best sent here by Argentina, Uruguay and Chile, and did not lose a single football or water polo game or swimming meet. In the water the Brazilians outclassed all competitors and former crack American and British swimmers here say the Brazilian swimmers are as good as any produced in the world.

On the football field, Brazil, after a hard struggle, wrested the laurels from the Uruguayans, twice South American champions.

The most noteworthy feature of the series of sporting events was not Brazil's victory, but the great interest taken in the sports by the people of all ages.

The games were held on the great field of the Fluminense Club. This club is one of the largest athletic organizations on the continent. The huge stadium seats nearly 40,000 people, and thousands were turned away from at least four of the seven big football games of the series.

A hill, overlooking the playing field, was black with people, much like the famous Coogan's Bluff of the old days of the Polo Grounds in New York.

Twenty years ago outdoor sport in Brazil did not exist, as it is known and recognized in the United States. A few foreigners played tennis. Members of the English colony played cricket and a little football, while the handful of Americans spent their holidays on the baseball diamond, and there entertained the sailors from visiting Yankee ships.

Brazil is ambitious for its athletics. The people are not satisfied with merely staking a South American championship tournament. They want to make the next meet a Pan-American or even an international one, open to the whole world. As the first step to such a realization, Arnaldo Guinle, director of the Fluminense Club, has asked the co-operation of United States Ambassador Edwin Morgan in transmitting an invitation to the Bethlehem Steel Works Football Club to send a team to Brazil or to provide a team of the best amateurs that can be secured in the United States to come down and play the Brazilians. The Americans are offered all expenses for the trip.

A bequest of $100,000 is made to Van M. Griffith, only son, and several bequests of $10,000 are made to relatives, including William J. Morgan, 4432 North Sixteenth street, Philadelphia; Jennie Morgan Gable, 2337 North Opal street, Philadelphia; Sarah Morgan Payne, Philadelphia, and Mary Morgan Pedlow, 113 South Ninth street, Ashland, Pennsylvania.

BOARD AT EXPOSITION CLEARED OF CHARGES

DES MOINES, July 12.—Woodworth Clum, secretary, and other members of the Iowa state commission to the Panama Pacific Exposition at San Francisco in 1915, were cleared of charges of misappropriation of state funds.

The legislative retrenchment and reform committee which has been conducting the probe reported that while there were some irregularities in reporting expenditures, nothing criminal attached to the irregularity.

bership in Local Lodge

Rev. R. E. Watson, who was pastor of the Unitarian church here for many years, held membership in the Santa Ana Lodge of Maccabees and during the long years that he claimed other places as his home, he maintained his membership in the local lodge. He carried an insurance policy with the order, and within thirty days after his death at San Diego, Mrs. Watson received a check for the face of the policy, $2000.

J. A. Hankey, secretary of the local lodge, today received the following acknowledgment of the check:

Dear Mr. Hankey: I wish to express to the lodge and to you my appreciation of the sympathetic expressions and acts on your part.

Through Mr. Watson's connection with the order, I know many of you as old and true friends, and it is this feeling that allows me to send this expression of appreciation.

I want to acknowledge receipt of check for $2000, paid to me as beneficiary and want to thank you again for the expeditious and efficient manner in which the matter was taken care of.

Very truly yours,
MRS. LAURA F. WATSON.

FIVE SHERIFFS' WORLD IS FULL OF PICTURES NOW ON DISPLAY

Record and Photograph of Each Officer Hung on Walls of Sheriff's Office

Since the organization of Orange county from a part of Los Angeles county, in August, 1889, until the present time there have been just five men who have held the office of sheriff and directed the enforcement of the laws and preservation of peace and order within the county boundaries. Until the present time there has been nothing on display in the courthouse to commemorate their service to the county.

Recently, however, C. E. Jackson, the present incumbent, decided to put the pictures and records of the sheriffs on display in his office, and through the co-operation of themselves or relatives this has now been done. The pictures, of uniform size, in stained slash-grained Oregon pine frames, 22 inches by 32 inches, have now been hung on the walls, together with the official record of each man.

R. T. Harris was elected the first sheriff of Orange county, serving from August 5, 1889, when the county was organized, to January 1, 1891, serving sixteen months until the next general election.

The second sheriff was Theo. Lacy, who assumed his duties on January 1, 1891, and served two two-year terms until January 1, 1895. He was elected again, and took office again on January 1, 1899, serving three four-year terms until January 1, 1911, a total of sixteen years, or more than half of the period since the county's organization thirty years ago.

The third sheriff was J. C. Nichols, who was elected November 6, 1894, to the first four-year term, and served four years from January 1, 1895, to January 1, 1899.

C. E. Riddock was the fourth sheriff, being elected November 5, 1910, and served four years to January 1, 1915.

The fifth sheriff is C. E. Jackson, who assumed the sheriff's duties on January 1, 1915, served the one four-year term, was then re-elected, and is now in the first year of his second term.

Also occupying places of honor in the sheriff's office is a large picture in gilt frame of Under-Sheriff Bob Squires, killed by a bandit at Tomato Springs, during Sheriff Riddock's administration, and Jose Cruz, killed two years ago at Delhi, supposedly by men who resented his activities in gathering evidence against Mexican blind pigs and gamblers.

WOULD-BE ROMEO IS CLUBBED BY WOMEN

If you were carrying a dirk knife and two women started to beat you with clubs, what would you do? That was the question which confronted Federico Martinez of the Smelter district on July 2. He drew the knife, and was promptly arrested, charged with assault with a deadly weapon. The complaint was sworn to by Marie Esquivel. Martinez was in court for hearing yesterday afternoon and was released because of insufficient evidence. He promised to leave the county. At the hearing it was brought out that Martinez was enamored of Marie but she did not return his advances. When he went to her home on July 2 Marie and another woman started beating him up with clubs and gave him a sound thrashing. Justice Cox thought the would-be Romeo had been punished enough by the beating and let Martinez go on his promise to "beat it."

Pat didn't know just how to pop the question and appealed to his mother, according to Everybody's. Then to the girl of his heart—"Mary," said he, "me mother wants to know if ye'll come and live with us always?" "Go home," said Mary very coyly, "and tell your mother I will."

They've been having race riots in Liverpool, and a tar-and-feather party in sedate Cambridge. Under the circumstances, one may be permitted to drop into Latin for the nonce—Et tu, Britannia!

MAY USE EXPLOSIVES WITHOUT A LICENSE

During the war there was a possibility that enemies of the United States might purchase dynamite and other explosives for use against the country, and to guard against such possibility every person who purchased or used explosives of whatever nature, was required to secure a government license, issued through the different county clerks. Now the war is officially over and the explosives regulations have been revoked, according to a letter received by County Clerk Backs from the U. S. Bureau of Mines. Backs is asked to return all unused license blanks and it will no longer be necessary for Orange county ranchers to get licenses for buying and using commercial explosives.

FISHING IN LAKE, COUNTY PARK, TODAY

Fishing in the County Park lake is the popular sport this evening from 4 o'clock until 7. Permission to fish in the lake on certain days this summer was given by the board of supervisors recently and today is the first period in which fishing will be allowed. The anglers must hold state fishing licenses, but are not required to get special permission for the lake fishing. Six days this summer, the second and fourth Saturdays of July, August and September, from 4 p. m. to 7 p. m., are the "open" season at the lake. By fall, it is estimated, most of the fish will have been caught. Then the remainder will be saved for restocking the lake, the water will be drained out, the rank growth of vegetation in the pond will be cleaned out and the lake filled with water again.

SHIPPING BOARD MEN TRY TO STOP STRIKE

NEW YORK, July 12.—Officials of the United States Shipping Board were to confer with representatives of shipping unions here today in an effort to avert the threatened strike of all union ship workers. Continuance of the deadlock after today's session will develop a general strike, union leaders predicted. Estimates of the total number of men now out-variant today, but union heads said there were 10,000. Approximately 200 vessels were tied up in Atlantic ports.

Announcement that shipping board officials would confer with union leaders here followed an ultimatum to the board by William S. Brown, international president of the Marine Engineers' Benevolent Association, threatening a general strike of engineers if the shipping board stands by the American Steamship Association in its refusal to give preference to American and American seamen over non-union aliens and to grant the wage increase demanded.

The strike was spreading today. Reports indicated that shipping was tied up as far south as New Orleans.

TUSTIN'S SOLDIERS
FORM ASSOCIATION

TUSTIN, July 12.—It will be of interest to the many service men of Tustin and vicinity to learn that the organization of the Santa Ana Chapter of the Orange County Service Men's Association is now practically complete and that the campaign for membership is now on.

At present Tustin is included in the Santa Ana chapter and all Tustin service men are urged to join without delay. The membership fees or annual dues, are only $1 per year.

Charles Logan and Sidney Saunby have been appointed to canvass the Tustin district for members, but as their time is limited and there are approximately 100 service men in the district, it is almost impossible for them to visit each and it is therefore urged that all who can possibly do so turn in their names and dues to these two men without waiting for a personal call. All who join before August 7 will be considered as charter members of the chapter.

Paul Knauf Killed Much
Small Game But He Found
It No Snap to Hit Mark

ORANGE County hunting can be divided into three periods. First, was the golden period when bear ranged the foothills and deer were as plentiful as rabbits are now; second, was the middle period when bear were scarcer than hen's teeth, deer rather hard to get, but quail still plentiful, a period when hunters who had always scorned the dove began to count it as game. Third, the present period that began some fifteen years ago when deer became so scarce that not over a dozen or fifteen were killed in the Santa Ana mountains in a season, when the big cactus patches were cleared away and the natural homes of the quail thus destroyed; when hunters of every kind of game in this county feel themselves lucky indeed, no matter how good they may be reckoned as shots, if they get a bag limit.

In the Register's Old Hunter Series tales have been told of bear hunts, mountain lion shooting, the killing of deer and the bagging of quail. Most of these stories date back to the first period. There will be more of them, perhaps, before the series is finished. Today is presented a story of the middle period.

In this country it is not often that one finds a hunter who learned how to shoot after he was a grown man. A lot of the best shots this section has known were men who grew up with rifles and shotguns in their hands.

One of those who learned how to shoot after he was grown, who loved hunting for the sake of hunting and who, though a greenhorn with a gun, was so fond of it that he was not deterred from hunting alongside of excellent shots, was Paul Knauf.

Paul Knauf has plied a trusty razor—not always the same razor—in his shop with George Paul since boom days, and he is still plying it. If there ever was a natural born sportsman, that man's Paul Knauf. He used to be an excellent baseball player of the fast company type, and he is an authority on anything that sounds like "How Dempsey Knocked the Block Off of Willard."

Between haircuts, Paul used to go hunting, and he kept at it until he learned how to hit 'em.

"The way to learn to shoot is to do a lot of shooting," said Knauf, and he ought to know, for that is how he learned.

"I learned how to shoot after I got to Santa Ana the latter part of 1887," said he. "From the time I was a mere boy it had always been my wish that I might own a shotgun and go hunting, not with a desire to slay in a wanton manner a lot of game, but with a desire to go a-field, have a good day out and bring back at least enough game to make pleasant odors rise from the kitchen stove."

Meets Good Hunters

"The chance to hunt never came to me until I arrived here. Soon after I got here I made the acquaintance of the Parker brothers, Ed, Clarence and Josh, and Andrew Harris and George Bessonet. They certainly were fine fellows, and I want to say right here that I never saw a sportsman who was white in the field who was black outside of it."

"My start was natural enough. First, I had to get a gun, and the next thing I had to do was to hit what I shot at. I found it easier to get the gun than it was to hit what I shot at. I found that learning to shoot requires practice."

"I began to learn something about duck shooting when I aimed at the first bird and killed the second, showing that a man does not always kill what he aims at."

"One of my first tries at wing shooting was at a very hard bird to hit—the jacksnipe. Others, no doubt, have found that out, too. I went out with Ed Vaughn, who, as all of the old-timers know, was an expert shot. We went into the pasture when the Santa Ana Sugar Company factory now stands. Jacksnipe were there in plenty. I had never laid eyes on a jacksnipe before in my life. Ed was knocking them down right along, but they were flying too fast for me to shoot. Ed said: 'Go ahead and shoot; you will never get them any other way.'

Learning to Shoot
"I went to shooting, and I kept at it until I had fired away a box of shells. I had two birds and Ed had fifty-six. 'That wasn't much of a showing, but I kept on trying.'

"The first big hunt I had was with George Peters and Ed Waffle in the Gubernadora canyon, and, say, there were quail there by the hundreds. We all shot about an even race, missing about ten and killing about one. Wow, what wouldn't it be like to have that kind of shooting now!

"I continued hunting at every chance. I made several trips with Henry Turner, who owned Turner's Shoe Store and who is now dead, and I got so I could hit the birds once in a while. Sometimes I would get seven birds in a day, and that seemed to be my limit. I said to Henry: 'When I get seven birds I am done for the day.' I can see him laughing yet, but he told me to keep on shooting."

"But I got by that seven-day limit. One day Joe Wilkes invited me to go on a shoot at his place at El Toro. I told him about my limit of seven. He said he never took more than twenty-five shells on a hunt and always brought back from twenty to twenty-five birds. He gave me a lot of good advice on hunting. One thing I found out from him was that I had always shot too quick. That is something that lots of new hunters are likely to do."

"That day was my record day up to that time, for I got twenty birds and six rabbits, and when I got home I had the President backed off the boards."

Hunts With Parker

"I felt so good about that hunt that I tempted Ed Parker to take a hunt with me, and I also bet him an oyster supper that he could not get two birds to my one. He accepted the bet. We went up into the Santiago canyon, and there routed out a bunch of birds. In the fly-up we got two shots apiece and two birds apiece. I was feeling pretty chesty. The birds flew over a hill, and we had quite a tramp before we found them in a little barranca. Ed told me to look out as they would come out fast. As soon as a bird would show up I would aim at it, and just before I was going to pull the trigger that bird would crumple up and fall. Ed was beating me to the shot every time. I did not know enough

SLIPPING 'ER IN
'IGH MIT'S OFF
TO YOSEMITE
VALLEYSanta Ana "Millionaire" to View California's Wonderland For Couple Weeks

Slipping 'er in 'igh, Mit Phillips yesterday morning pulled out for Yosemite with a confident feeling that he would arrive at his destination without colliding with another auto standing along the route or hitting a telephone pole.

Mit is "pulling the reins" over an Oldsmobile Six and he has been pulling them long enough to know "gee" from "haw," so there is less likelihood of pulling the wrong "string" as he did soon after he got his new car and bumped into a machine standing near the curb in front of the Mateer drug store.

"The man with the hearty laugh" made diligent inquiry as to water facilities along the route before he ventured into territory where even camels would think twice before starting on a journey that is dry atmospherically as well as otherwise.

Mit has a high regard for water, in its proper place, and some of his friends have insinuated since his departure that Mit never as yet has definitely located the "proper place."

A reserve of drivers was taken along as a matter of precaution and possible preservation of the life of the new Oldsmobile. Kellar Watson of Orange and George Clausen of Santa Ana, both experienced men at the wheel of a machine, accompanied Santa Ana's "millionaire," while Mrs. Phillips went along to "preserve the dignity of the whole bunch."

The party will spend a week or two in the wonderful valley. Before leaving mit called on all his neighbors at 4 a. m. to tell them good-bye.

ASSOCIATION TO HOLD SESSION
AT LAGUNA

The regular meeting of the Orange County Auto Trades Association will be held at Laguna next Friday evening, with the wives and sweethearts of the members being in attendance. The meeting will be held in Philbrook's hall, and in addition to the regular business meeting there will be a program of entertainment provided by the Laguna Beach Chamber of Commerce.

The full program has not been outlined as yet, but it is possible that dancing will be a part of the evening entertainment. Anyhow the meeting will offer the craftsmen and their women an opportunity for an evening at the beach during the hot weather. Laguna is a most delightful place at which to pass an evening and the boosters of that place will see that those in attendance do not lack entertainment.

Refreshments will be served at the close of the evening. The meeting is scheduled for 7 o'clock so that the business coming up for attention can be disposed of early and the remainder of the time devoted to pleasures.

AUTO CLUB OF COUNTY
PAID 55 JUNE CLAIMS

During the month just completed the Indemnity Exchange of the Auto Club of Orange County paid fifty-five claims on cars which are insured in the club. Fifty of these claims were caused by collision.

"The Automobile Club of Orange County furnishes automobile insurance to residents of Orange county at a very low rate," says a club representative. "It is endeavoring to give the best of service, and the rapid rate with which its membership is increasing is evidence of the fact that it is being successful in this."

"The club is a local organization and spends its money at home. The various repairs are being made in the different garages of the county."

Why Cravath Is Manager

"Gavvy" Cravath

Comeback With Big Stick Is Amazing After His Former Slump

Why and how Gavvy Cravath today is manager of the Philadelphia team of the National League is shown clearly in press articles appearing in the Philadelphia Ledger and Inquirer as far back as two months ago, when the baseball writers on these two papers turned themselves loose in eulogies on the former Santa Ana man and recapitulated his activities from the time he entered professional ball with the Los Angeles Serapas in 1903 up to the present.

When the writers operated their typewriters in preparing their opinions for the reading public, Cravath probably was not thought of in the capacity of manager of the team, but the tenor of the stories clearly indicates what has brought the famous slugger to the high position he is holding today.

The Inquirer sport writer, who sails under the non de plume of "Jim Nastum," also is a cartoonist and in the issue of May 25, he depicted his idea of Cravath's "swatting" powers as a prelude to his story. The original copy of the drawing was framed and sent to Mrs. Cravath at Laguna, who has just placed it on exhibition in one of the windows at Vic Walker's. Fans who dote on Cravath, as well as those humans in this vicinity, will find the cartoon worth viewing.

Here's "Jim Nastum's" story, and it will be read with keen relish by local admirers of Gavvy.

Has it ever dawned upon you, gentle reader, that laboring for our own Phils this damp and budding springtime there is one athlete who is compiling one of the most remarkable careers of any hitter who has ever stepped up to the plate in this pop-

COMPANY GETS
HOME FOR
OAKLANDExpanding Business Necessitates Additional Room to Meet Demands

Edgar & Hays, Oakland agents, are in a permanent home at the corner of Broadway and Fifth streets. They have brought the property they have had under lease since opening business. It was bought from E. F. Wickersheim, who has owned it for a number of years. The lot is 60x125 feet and is covered with garage buildings.

The firm has made a wonderful record in its five or six months of business life. It has been selling Oakland faster than it has been possible for the company to supply them. They are satisfied that the business is here and anticipating the time when the Oakland will be rolling in in old time form and numbers, they have prepared for the future by buying the property. It indicates permanency.

"Enlargement of our quarters was absolutely necessary to take care of our business and about the only way we could secure this was to purchase the place," declared N. H. Edgar today. "We now will occupy the full building, establishing our repair shop in the room which has been occupied by Ed Epperly for many years. We intend making this one of the most up to date shops in the city, and when our plans are completed we will be able to take care of all classes of general public automobile repair work."

"We will spare no expense in equipping the shop and in maintaining a force of expert repair men. We have built up a good reputation and we will protect it by giving the business our close personal attention."

"Bruce DeVoe, an Oakland expert, will be in charge of the shop, and purchasers of our cars will be assured of a service that is just what the word implies."

"The room that we have used as our repair shop will be devoted to second hand machines and we expect to develop this into an important adjunct of our growing business."

Improvements will be made throughout the building that will tend to brighten up every room and which will add to the convenience of patrons.

Wickersheim to Build
After disposing of the corner, Ed Wickersheim turned around and bought the lot immediately to the north, from Geo. S. Smith. In the deal is a consideration that Wickersheim within thirty days will start the erection of a building that will be one of the prettiest in the city, with marble front and other points in keeping with this class. It will be a garage building, whether for rent or for use by Wickersheim himself as agent for some car, could not be ascertained today.

Building is stirring at the corner of Broadway and Fifth, for in addition to the room to be put up by Wickersheim, City Councilman W. A. Greenleaf will in the immediate future commence the erection of a brick garage on Fifth street immediately adjoining the Wickersheim property on the west. It will be occupied by a local garage man.

Eastern Sporting Writers Amazed by 'Gavvy' Cravath

Record of Veteran Diamond Star Shown By Articles In Philadelphia Newspaper, Believed the Reason For Promotion

eyed pastime of ours? You suggested it right the first time, only maybe it had never occurred to you before we mentioned it. Yes, we mean old "Clouting Cactus" Cravath, the senile and tottering old man whom critics and others had consigned to the scrap heap some seasons ago, and who this season is displaying such a remarkable rejuvenation of the old whaling orbs that it causes one to suspect that Gavvy has succeeded where one Ponce De Leon failed by locating that fabled Fountain of Youth.

After slowly slipping back from his best season in 1913 until we began to feel certain that Gavvy was headed for baseball oblivion with his accelerator wide open and firing on all six cylinders, Gavvy suddenly wakes up the baseball world by responding this season with what thus far threatens to be best of all his years, and this at the age of thirty-seven when most big league stars are only to be recalled by reference to the record books. Gavvy is still out there with a bundle of goods that leads us to believe that he will probably go on for several years more as one of the greatest long-distance hitters that the game has ever known. The mistake Ponce De Leon made was in looking for that Fountain of Youth in Florida. We now haven't got the slightest doubt that the fabled spring gushes from the earth in the neighborhood of Laguna Beach, Cal., the winter residence of Clifford Cravath.

Leads All Maulers

At the hour in which we are thumping this out on the old type machine, which means up to and including Friday's opening game against Alexander and the Cubs, this veteran mauler of the missile is assaulting the missile for an average of .583, which leads all competitors in both leagues by a mile, and he has included among his blows this spring seven doubles, one triple and two home runs, and nearly every blow has driven in a bundle of runs for the Philadelphia ball club. You might say that the season is young yet and that early season averages do not count for much. But when you consider this along with Gavvy's past record and his present advanced age, we'll show you where this is one of the most remarkable performances that have ever been staged since the game began.

You can dig up the records of all the old-time slugging stars of the past and preach them till you grow blue behind the gills—Ed Deleahanty, Pop Anson, Sam Thompson, Honus Wagner and all the rest, but when the bulk of the blows and their value at driving runs over the plate are considered this clouting Californian, Cravath, has all rivals of all time floundering in the backstretch. And at the rate at which he is going at present Gavvy is apt to hang up a long-distance slugging mark that the hitters of future ages will be shooting at into eternity. Gavvy first started in to assault pitching around the minor league circuits back in 1903, when he drew his first pay as a missile mauler for the Los Angeles club, and ever since that time has been steadily adding to his reputation as a man who was apt to lose all control of himself when he got a club in his hands and was turned loose on a pitcher. During sixteen steady years of missile mauling since that time Gavvy has already slammed out many more home runs than any other hitter who has ever faced a pitcher and he is still doing it with no signs of weakening.

Ancient History

Beginning in Los Angeles in 1903, up to and including his services to date with our Phils, Gavvy has waded through four different leagues, including services in the American and National, and has whaled out the enormous total of 297 home runs, 182 triples and 533 doubles. This is in sixteen seasons and that portion of the present season that has already elapsed. That is five years shorter than the time consumed in the career of Honus Wagner, one of the greatest hitters the game has known, and in five years less time Cravath has made 196 home runs more than Wagner, or more than twice as many circuit smashes as Honus delivered in his entire career. Wagner's record in long hits for twenty-one years is 101 home runs, 257 doubles and 638 triples.

Cravath's best year with the bludgeon was with Minneapolis in 1911, when he not only led the American Association in hitting with an average of .363, but smashed all existing records in home runs for a single season by mauling out 29 circuit clouts. That same season Gavvy also hit three other balls over the fence, but was not credited with home runs because the winning run happened to be on the bases at the time and the game ended when the runner crossed the plate, and he also slammed out 53 doubles and 13 triples.

Gavvy came close to equaling this record again in the big league when with the Phils in 1913 he finished the season with a batting average of .341 and made nineteen home runs, fourteen triples and thirty-four doubles, and in this same season he compiled a record for driving in home runs that has never been equaled since the records came into vogue.

Gavvy had his best big league home run season in 1915, the year his hitting and Alexander's pitching won a pennant for the Phils. That season Gavvy slammed out twenty-four circuit clouts and also added thirty-one doubles and seven triples.

To show that Gavvy is a natural hitter and not a manufactured one, in his first season in professional baseball, with the Los Angeles club in 1903, Gavvy led the Pacific Coast League in hits with 319, forty-four more than his nearest competitor.

It has been said that the National League has had no steady batting leader, like Cobb in the American League, since Wagner lost the habit. But when you consider the bulk of the blows delivered and their value at driving runs over the plate, which, after all, is the only true test of batting value to a ball club, the National League has had but one batting leader in the seven consecutive seasons since Cravath came into the league in 1912, and his name is Clifford Cravath. In every one of these years but one, when he was led by his teammate, Sherwood Magee, Cravath has led both leagues at driving runs over the plate, while in 1913 he established a mark in this respect that clean-up hitters will be shooting at for years to come.

Following is Cravath's complete batting record by seasons since entering professional baseball:

Is Platinum-Plated Star

Here's what the Philadelphia Ledger sport writer had to say about six weeks ago about Gavvy and his record:

The one real, outstanding, platinum-plated star of the Phils is the oldest player on the payroll, namely, the well-known and dangerous Clifford Cravath. Mr. Cravath hit the 37-year mark on March 23 last and is four months older than John Wesley Coombs, the directing boss of the team. Hitting the thirty-seven mark is the worst hitting Gabby has done in his life. He hits the ball much harder.

Cravath, on the road to 38 years of age, is the wonder of baseball. Today finds him the pacemaker of one of the major league clubs. He is playing better ball this year than he has done in the last three or four seasons.

A common estimate of Cravath is that he is a slow thinking, slow moving, slow fielding, good natured chap, who pounds out base hits by sheer might. If it is the common analysis, it is the wrong one. Cravath is probably the headiest ball player on the team. He is lasting years after most players pass into retirement because of brains.

Cravath can divine the intention of an opposing pitcher far better than his younger and more agile pals. He has a pair of sharpshooter eyes and uses them for seeing purposes. When Cravath drives out a smoking hit you can rest assured that he knew what was being served to him and was set for it. There is no hit-or-miss style with him.

He knows how to play for batsmen in right field and plays hits against the wall better than any other right fielder with the Phils or an opposing team. Cravath makes his defensive skill all the more valuable by his uncanny throwing. In the writer's opinion, Cravath is the best throwing outfielder in America. Speaker can leave a ball faster, but even Speaker can't throw with the judgment of Cravath. Cravath puts steam behind his throws all right, but more than anything else he has the instinct to throw to the right place. Cravath throws are never wasted.

In the small right field area at Broad and Huntington a player must use his brain in throwing. When a hitter sends a single to right with a man on first base the right fielder must prevent the runner from scoring and the batsman from taking second. Cravath prevents both objects when visiting outfielders, enjoying reputations for greater defensive skill, lose in one or both instances.

Cravath has ever been a credit to Philadelphia baseball ever since that snowy evening in early March of 1912 when he pushed his way through a crowded lobby at the Majestic in Hot Springs, Ark., and asked the hotel clerk where Charley Dooin was.

U. S. TIRES ARE BIG SELLERS ABROAD

American tires are keeping step in popularity in foreign lands with American automobiles. Last year the United States Tire Company sent its product to forty countries scattered throughout the world. The removal of shipping restrictions is expected to result in adding twenty-five or thirty countries to the list during the current year.

A few days ago an Iceland automobile dealer paid a visit to the New York office of the United States Tire Company and ordered full tire equipment for fifty cars. He said that this brand of tire was regarded as the "quality brand" in his country.

Turning to the southern hemisphere, it is noted that a recent issue of "La Nacion," the leading newspaper of Santiago, Chile, carried a half-page article telling of the wonderful performance of a Scripps-Booth car in a test run of 1939 kilometers over the mountain roads of that country.

At the conclusion of the run the driver remarked: "I must mention that during the entire run from Concepcion to Combarbo—a distance of about 1200 miles—we had only one puncture. The tires were United States Royal cords and we think it our duty to speak of their quality."

Killed Much Small Game In Past But Had Trouble at First

to go off and hunt by myself, and the result was that in that hunt he got three to my one.

"I have never happened to pay him that oyster supper, but it is his any time he wants it. I took several such hunts with Ed Parker, and I can truly say that he was the greatest quail shot I ever saw."

By the way, Ed Parker (C. E. Parker, manager of the Orange County Title Co.) and his experiences were the subject of one of the best articles of this Old Hunter Series. It was published a few weeks ago.

"I got the hunting fever pretty bad," continued Knauf. "Bill English invited me down to San Juan Capistrano, and we had a good shoot, killing over four dozen birds."

"One of the best hunts I had was one afternoon with Wilkie Edwards, now dead, son of Col. Edwards. We drove out of Santa Ana behind a little pack mare at noon and got back at 6 o'clock with six dozen and four birds."

Out in a Cloud
"We did that hunting in the Santiago creek bottom near the mouth of Limestone canyon. We tramped that creek bottom over, and though we saw millions of tracks, we couldn't find a bird. I saw a wildcat off up a little draw, and went up there after him, but didn't get him. We were just ready to start for home without a quail when, by good luck something happened."

"There were two doves sitting on a dead limb. I told Wilkie that I was going to try to do what I had seen Ed Parker and Ed Vaughn both do. When a dove flies off a limb it swoops down, and the idea was that I was to keep my eye on one bird until it got in line with the other, after they flew, and get them both. When they flew, I tried to shoot too quick, and only got one of them, but that shot scared out a great cloud of quail that had been hiding right alongside of where we were standing. That was the best quail hunting I ever had. We sold those birds to G. W. Moore, the feed store man, to get money to buy more shells."

"Some time after this I sold my shotgun and tried to quit hunting. It didn't work. I got the fever again, and ordered a new gun. It arrived one day on the 10:30 train, and I got Al Harlan to drive me out to where Joe Terry is now farming on the Maybury ranch."

"The field was full of tumble weeds, and the day was hot. Weeds had lodged against a fence, and made good cover for the quail. My dog got them out for me, and I got seventeen and was back in the shop by 12 o'clock."

Now Hard to Get

"When the limit of twenty-five birds a day was put on, I had no trouble for a few seasons in going out and bagging the limit. Birds got scarcer, and the limit went down to twenty, then to fifteen, and now a man has to be an expert to get fifteen."

"I had a good hunt about six years ago with Albert Fuller, the Cubbon boys and 'Shorty' McFadden. We went down to a place near Fallbrook. We had no success the first evening. That night I made the acquaintance of a Dutchman in a bake shop, and he said he was working on a road where there were plenty of quail. After I had introduced him to a bottle, he said we might come over and see him the next morning at 5 o'clock. We were there on time, and he showed us the birds. Bill Cubbon did some fine shooting that day. We all got along in good shape, for when we returned before noon we had 150 quail and thirty rabbits and a few doves."

"Hunting is sure enough different from what it used to be. One day I killed eighteen quail and twenty-seven ducks at Salt Creek with No. 9 shot. I remember one Christmas day I got a good bunch of ducks in Joe Lynch's pasture. That was a long time ago. On arriving at the corner of Fourth and Main streets I offered a man some of them. He gave them a searching look and said: 'Well, if you'll clean 'em, I'll take a couple.' Nowadays you don't have to ask people if they want ducks. They grab them. The last good duck hunt I had was with Henry Rutherford. He invited me to his club, and I had no trouble getting the limit."

"Duck hunting now has gone to the clubs, and the man who doesn't belong to one can't get many ducks."

"I never killed any big game. I never saw a deer wild. I went on a trip to Catalina Island once with a party and we killed twenty-one goats, but it never struck me that there was much sport in that kind of shooting. As to bear shooting, I don't think I'll try that, for I've lost my speed."

ANAHEIM MAN PLEASED WITH INTERNATIONAL

W. E. Askin, of the Dixie Ranch Company, Anaheim, is well satisfied with the results he is getting from an International 8-16 tractor, as witness the following letter to M. Eltiste and Son, Orange, distributors for the machine:

"The International 8-16 is satisfactory in every way," writes Askin. "We are able to handle forty-six acres in less time and do better work than we could with teams. We can work closer to the trees and also can avoid injury to trees, which was almost unavoidable when working horses. We are able to handle much heavier tools, which means better cultivation."

Bob Reid and Manager Atkinson Go After Chevrolets and Get 'Em

R. E. Reid and Manager Atkinson of the Reid Motor Company have been "pulling strings" to get Chevrolets here in sufficient numbers to partially take care of the big demand. The result was the arrival here today of a carload from the Chevrolet plant at Ft. Worth with another carload due Tuesday or Wednesday from the Oakland branch.

Reid and Atkinson went up to the Oakland factory this week, leaving here last Sunday, and on their return each drove a car back.

"We went to the factory to look things over and see what the prospects are," said Atkinson today. "We found the Chevrolet factory running practically to full capacity, turning out 85 cars a day."

"Shortage of material from the factory at Flint, Mich., is holding the Oakland plant down to this number of cars per day, for it could easily put out 100 per day if the material was available."

"Small parts are arriving from the Flint plant, at the rate of a carload daily, the shipments coming through by special freight, in order to keep the factory at the speed it is now running. The shipments are special parts and have to be sent by fast freight in the daily carload shipment to make it possible to keep the wheels humming. This is as fast as the material can be produced and spared from the Flint factory."

"We met a number of coast representatives at the plant and all reported that the Chevrolet is becoming more popular all the time and that they had to maintain waiting lists."

Extends Hand to Left, Expects Driver Approaching Car to See Signal

Yes, sir, he's still here—the man who drives a car with steering wheel and control on the right hand side of the car and when he wants to turn to his left holds out his left hand, expecting the driver of a car approaching from the rear to see the sign he is going to turn.

The automobile editor had about come to the conclusion that women were the only drivers guilty of this action. He learned differently this morning. Pounding the road at thirty miles an hour a rushing from Balboa to get on the job at a seasonable hour, the scribe bumped up against "Him" on South Main street just north of the Main street sugar factory.

Never suspecting for a moment that the car ahead would turn into a drive way on the left side of the road, the scribe started to pass and drew up close to the rear of the car.

Just about the time the lead car got to a driveway the driver extended his hand to indicate the turn as he started to make the turn. The tips of his fingers could be seen extending just beyond the front bows of the top. They could be seen because the scribe's car was a little to the left of the center of the street and close up. They could not have been seen had the trailing machine been running on a line with the lead car.

Quick action was all that saved the scribe's car bumping into the "farmer driver's" machine.

There still are many cars with the steering wheel on the right traveling the roads, and drivers of such cars should bear in mind that when they extend their hand to indicate a turn to the left that the extended hand cannot be seen by a driver in a car at the rear.

They should get wise to the new signals. They might save damage to their own cars as well as to those that might come into collision with theirs. The recognized signal for a turn to the left for a driver of a car with a right-hand wheel is to hold the right hand straight up.

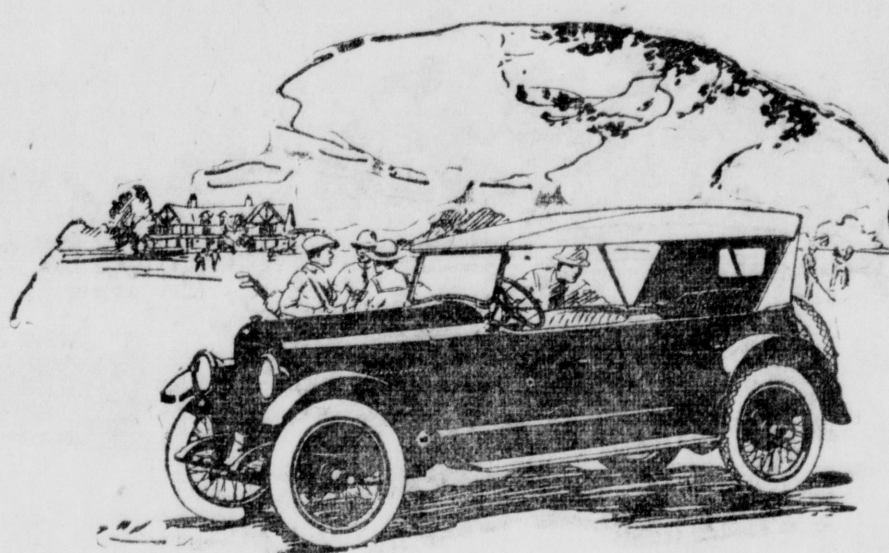

TRACTOR DRAW BAR PATENT SUIT FILED

LOS ANGELES, July 12.—Suit for alleged infringement on a patented draw-bar hitch for tractors was brought yesterday in the United States District court by Henry J. Schultze of Fullerton, Orange county, against Ernest A. Sexton and F. R. Simpson of Goleta, Santa Barbara county. The plaintiff claims he has been damaged many thousands of dollars by the manufacture and sale by defendants of a device similar to the one he patented on May 13, 1915.

Taking Big Chances
It is too much of a risk to depend upon neighbors or sending for medicine in case of a sudden attack of bowel complaint. In almost every neighborhood some one has died from cholera morbus that could easily have been saved had the proper medicine been at hand. Then think of the suffering that much be endured until medicine can be obtained. The safe way is to keep at hand a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy, a preparation that can be depended upon. Buy it now. It only costs 35 cents.—Advertisement.

'HENRYS' COMING SOON WITH STARTERS

Announcement From Factory
Brings Joy to Agents
In Santa Ana

With Fords rolling out of the factory at the rate of 4000 a day and announcement that they will soon be coming electrically-equipped, starter and lights, Joe Stout and John Knox, local agents, are stepping high these days. They are getting all "swelled up," not on themselves, but on the fact that "Mr. Henry" will be coming through in better shape and with equipment that will make the demand even greater than it has been in the past.

"With 'Henry' coming equipped with self-starters, 'strong arm' starters will pass into history, so far as new manufacture is concerned and when the 'present generation' of Fords has passed to the scrap heap, a machine without a starter will be an oddity. Can't stop us," was the terse comment of Stout, as he passed out the good news that the factory was hitting the 4000 clip and that cars will come equipped with starters.

However, the factory will not be averse to putting the cars out without the equipment, and if there are any who would rather "twist the tail" of a "Henry" than sit in a seat and let electricity do the twisting, such will be accommodated.

"Brimming full of that confidence which brings success, and that active energy which creates success, the Ford Motor Company is establishing assembling plants in Copenhagen, Denmark, and in Cadiz, Spain," said Stout today.

"The Ford Motor Company believes the war is over, that a new dispensation has been established, and that the sooner American manufacturers can align themselves to the new conditions and reach out to meet the great demands of the world, why, the quicker the havoc wrought by the war will have been effaced. The quicker we can get international business at work, the sooner will the horrors of the war disappear and the earlier we can reach out our hand of trade to help, the earlier will be the disappearance of hate and enmity between peoples.

"The Ford Motor Company believes if you want the foreign market, go to it. Don't wait for it to come to you. Take what you have to sell to the market, and there show its advantages to the people who visit that market and to the people who buy in that market. If you wish foreign trade, become active, living part in the red blood of that trade. The whole world is a market today for American enterprise, and those who realize this truth and make honest efforts to get that trade, will have it."

Santa Ana Branch Manager
Tells What Contractor Is Doing With Vehicle

"Few people stop to consider the intrinsic part the motor truck is taking in the present wave of building activity that is sweeping the United States. The spirit has hit every corner of the country as the result of the declaration of peace, and in order to make up for lost time, an important portion of the work falls to the motor vehicle industry.

"New buildings for office purposes, factories, dwellings and constructions of civic importance are being pushed to the utmost. A mad rush is being made in every branch of business towards expansion and the first step in this respect harks back to transportation facilities—motor transportation," declared Cotton Mather, Santa Ana branch manager of the Moreland Motor Truck Company.

"Everybody knows what the motor truck did in the recent war," continued Mr. Mather, "and those engaged in this work know full well the value of the motor truck."

"Big business men have now awakened to the realization that the motor truck has long passed through the stages of experimentation and that now it takes its rank with other stable lines of business that are of necessity and of a practical plane. The motor truck is not considered a luxury; it has justifiably proven its utilitarian value.

Scope Nearly Unlimited
"As an example of what the motor truck can do and proving that its scope of work is well nigh unlimited, the daily routine cut-out for a five-ton Moreland distillate burning truck, which is owned by James Connors, a well known hauling contractor, best proves the above statements and contentions.

"Nearly a year ago Connors purchased his trucking equipment. Since that time he has worked his truck continuously. The work of the truck has taken it on hauls ranging from 25 miles to 130, over roads that could be called too rough for expeditious traveling. His equipment has been overloaded; which is not advocated by the motor truck manufacturer, and it has labored with two overloaded trailers attached.

"At the present writing, Connors' son is making daily trips from Tropic to Long Beach, averaging sixty miles, hauling pipe. The big Moreland, with its two trailers, negotiates the round trip every day and not once has it given any trouble whatsoever, according to Connors.

"The truck and trailers carry five hundred pieces of pipe each trip. The burden placed on the truck weighs 28,500 pounds, one trailer carrying 3400 and the other transporting 1500 pounds, respectively. The total weight of the load, therefore, aggregates 17 tons," he continued.

"The fuel cost for the trip was given by Connors' son at approximately $2.50 per day. Thus it will be seen that motor transportation is performing duties that are absolutely practical and which cannot be duplicated, from point of actual cost and time, by any other form of transportation known.

"The trip is made by the Moreland and trailers in high gear all the way, with the exception of one steep hill. Other than this, the long, hard jaunt is executed without even retarding the spark throttle."

PINK NOTES AND PERSONALS

Dr. C. T. Cleland, who left here two weeks ago in an Oakland car for a tour by auto into Oregon and Washington, writes Edgar and Hays that on July 9 he was at Grant Pass and that he and his family were having a most delightful time. "Some fierce grades and detours to amount of 30 degree grades," writes the Santa Ana man. "Car is working fine. Average twenty miles to the gallon and 700 miles on oil."

Norman Thompson, formerly with Ed Epperly, has joined Ham's force of experts, and will look after repairs on larger cars.

Refreshed by a vacation of six weeks in Bear Valley, Charles L. Davis, Chandler agent, is back on the job again, and ready for the hard grind of another year. Mountain air and diet of Bear Lake trout have had their effect and Davis returns to the business life with lots of vim.

Considerable Kicking

My brother, who was a private at Camp Hancock, was told to harness a team of mules and go several miles out of camp for some hay for the horses. He had never had any experience in doing farm work, but he saluted and went about the task. We know not how he succeeded, excepting in his next letter he informed us that by night the mules had kicked a perfectly good government harness to leathery ribbons.—Exchange.

WILLARD IN AIR SERVICE MAKES GOOD RECORD

Life of the Liberty Motor Is the Little Jumping
Sparks

When a Liberty motor is giving its utmost to push forward a Liberty plane, the result to the ear at least, is a noise which would hardly be welcome in the reading room of a public library or under your window when you want to sleep.

Such is the voice of gasoline raised in protest against being introduced to the little spark of electricity which jumps across the spark plugs 165 times every second, but the protest is in vain for the "juice" keeps coming—165 times each second, 9900 sparks per minute, 594,000 times in an hour, coming from a little innocent looking box full of lead and acid and water and rubber, stowed away in the fuselage, out of sight but never out of the mind of the man whose life depends upon it.

The storage battery is the soul of the Liberty motor. As gasoline is its food, steel and aluminum its clothing, so is electricity its spark of life. Without that spark it is an inert mass; with it the Liberty motor is a source of magnificent power.

The Willard Storage Battery Company in Cleveland had for years been making storage batteries for starting, lighting and ignition on automobiles, says Earl Matthews, of the Orange County Ignition Works. "When Uncle Sam decided he would take no more nonsense from the kaiser, the Willard organization was asked to design a storage battery for ignition in an aircraft motor.

"The first difficulties faced were the necessary limitations on size and weight, as Uncle Sam's specifications called for a battery of a certain capacity weighing not more than ten pounds. Any motorist who has tried to life his storage battery, knows what it weighs. Lead—the very name sounds heavy—makes up most of the storage battery, and ten pounds of lead is not very much. The Willard engineers set to work and designed a battery of the proper capacity, weighing but ten pounds and two ounces, which was satisfactory to the government designers.

"But the size and weight were not the only obstacles. An automobile properly driven stays on its wheels and there is no danger of the acid contents of the battery spilling out. But a Liberty plane must operate just as well 'head over heels' as any other way, and the Willard engineers found that they must design a battery which, while open at the top, did not spill its contents when inverted. This sounds rather difficult—and it was—but it was done just the same. Within ten days from the receipt of the government's specifications, the Willard engineers had designed and perfected a battery which met the government's needs as to capacity, size, weight—and this battery operated upside down. This battery was adopted and never since has it been changed in any detail.

"Such is the inside story of the ignition on the Liberty airplane motor. Storage batteries have for years been recognized as the most efficient and most reliable means of providing ignition for gasoline motors, but other and less advantageous forms of ignition had to be used until American inventive genius was brought to bear on modern war problems.

"The inventions of war are being turned to peace use. We are breaking our swords into plowshares, and the same little Willard battery which gave life to the Liberty aircraft motor over the Argonne is now furnishing the 9900 sparks per minute which help to carry Uncle Sam's mail along the air lanes.

"The RC-4, which made history in its flight across the Atlantic was equipped with a Willard threaded rubber battery."

Boosting Great National Highway

N. D. Darlington, chairman of State Highway Commission, and M. D. Bixby, Los Angeles manager of Goodrich Rubber Co., discussing greatest economic development in country's history.

That actual improvement work authorized in the $10,000,000 bond issue will be commenced on the highways of California this year was the statement made by N. D. Darlington, chairman of the State Highway Commission, to M. D. Bixby, local manager of the E. F. Goodrich Rubber Company, following the approval of the bond issue by the voters.

On the roads where surveying and preliminary work has already been done contracts will within the next few months be let for the completion of the grading and paving. This applies to many hundreds of miles in various parts of the state.

It will not be necessary for the state to wait until the bonds are actually sold, according to Chairman

Darlington, although it is anticipated that they will be readily saleable as the condition of the money market is far more favorable now than when the previous issues of California roads bonds were put on the market.

The state highway department expects shortly to receive its apportionment of the heavy trucks built for army use and of which there was a surplus of over 30,000 when hostilities terminated. The Federal government is distributing these trucks apportionately to the different states on application. California some time ago made application for its quota, and when they are delivered they will be used in the construction work which is to be done under the new bond issue. This will mean a great saving to the state, as the only expense to which it will be put will be for transportation of the trucks from the various depots to the points at which the state highway department is desirous of using them.

Commenting upon the overwhelming success of the good roads bonds issue, Chairman Darlington stated that it is impossible to estimate the tremendous influence toward the development of agriculture that the passage of the bonds will result in.

"The result is extremely gratifying to all who are interested and who appreciate what an important factor the highway improvement will mean in the development of the state by making accessible remote districts," said Darlington.

RECORD MAKING PACKARD HAD EXIDE BAT.

The International auto race held at Sheepshead Bay, June 14, has caused much comment in the automobile world. The marvelous feat performed by Ralph De Palma has naturally called for criticism of machines.

De Palma won the 500-mile race in a Packard racing car, breaking the world's record. He averaged 113 miles an hour throughout the greater part of the race.

In the thirteenth lap De Palma shot right ahead of his competitors, and gradually increased his lead. His car at this time reached a speed of 140 miles an hour.

"Think of the enormous strain on man and car to accomplish this wonderful feat," said Mr. Elkin, manager of the local "Exide" Service station, commenting on the race. "Every detail of the car must be as strong as every nerve in the man. After all the successful tests that the 'Exide' battery has gone through, it gives me the

FRANKLIN GOOD FOR HOT WEATHER TRIPS

E. L. Morrison is back from an auto trip to Yosemite and a stronger booster than ever for the Franklin. He covered a total of 1322 miles on his trip, in which he was accompanied by Mrs. Morrison. He had no trouble of any character, the machine working perfectly. Not even a puncture marred the pleasures of the tour.

"I don't see that there is any need of carrying a kit of tools in a Franklin," declared Morrison, upon his return.

Having run his car 12,700 miles before starting on the trip and believing that the valves should be ground, Morrison called on Bob White, Orange County Franklin dealer, and insisted that the machine must need some attention, as it had never been in the shop. Bob told him all that was needed was gas and oil.

Returning home, Morrison stopped and acknowledged "the pumpkins" to White. White was right—all that was needed was gas and oil. Morrison expressed his delight at the performance of the machine. It was "some hot" but this didn't bother the air cooled car.

greatest pleasure to think that De Palma's car was equipped with an 'Exide' battery. This goes to further prove the endurance of the 'Exide' Batteries."

DURSTON LAYING FOR SOME EASY MONEY

J. E. Durston, district representative of the Holt caterpillar, is going to walk off with some easy money around these parts some of these days, if people who believe he can't do what he says he can do back up their belief with real cash.

Durston says he can send a Holt up the Capistrano hill that has become famous as the scene of the annual motorcycle hill climb of the Orange County Motorcycle Dealers' Association.

There are those who say it can't be "did." Durston produces real money—the others only hot air.

Durston knows what his "boats" will do. The factory knows what can be done with them, and the scaling of Pike's Peak a short time ago by a five-ton Holt caterpillar has served only to convince Durston that they can go practically any place where traction can be secured.

The Holt was driven to the top of Pike's Peak by Lieutenant Colonel M. A. Champlin, a factory representative. He fought his way through two miles of snowdrifts.

It was the first time in the history of the world that a tractor negotiated the peak and the first time a tractor has ever reached that altitude—14,109 feet.

The man who achieved this remarkable record has been with the Holt company for many years. Returning from war service, he was placed in charge of the Holt display at the Denver tractor show and he determined to demonstrate what the Holt would do by climbing the peak. It took him seven hours and forty-five minutes.

Fred Ross "ain't" saying a word. The Wm. F. Lutz Company is distributor for the Holt, and Fred knows a few things himself about the machines.

VENTURA MAY VOTE MORE ROAD BONDS

VENTURA, July 12.—Ventura county may issue $500,000 worth of bonds in the near future to complete the system of roads in this county. Also the Oakland Sensible Six

Our business has increased so much in volume in the past three months that we have been crowded for room and the only way we had of increasing our floor space was to buy the building and taking over the shop space formerly occupied by Mr. Epperly.

Now we will be in position to take care of all auto owners' wants, as we carry a full line of Auto Accessories, Tires, Greases, Etc.

We have a repair shop of over 3,000 square feet, which we intend to make one of the most modern and up-to-date shops in California. We will have expert mechanics in charge, who know autos and how to repair them, and all work guaranteed to be satisfactory; we dote on the old adage "Cleanliness is next to Godliness."

We regret our inability to supply the demand for Oakland cars in the past, but we are pleased to say with a carload arriving next week and a continued daily shipment from the factory to the West Coast, we should be able to give every man or woman an Oakland who desires one; and if there be any who are in doubt as to the merits of this wonderful little Six, we will gladly furnish you with a list of over 100 names, people who have purchased cars from us in past 6 months. They will gladly testify to the wonderful performances of this wonderful little Six.

gued. The board feels the best way to meet the situation is to issue bonds, covering an extended term of years.

If the plan is carried out, Ventura county, it is claimed, will have the greatest mileage of roads in proportion to her territory in the United States. Two years ago a bond issue of $1,000,000 for roads in this county was made.

Highways that would be paved under the new issue would include the Santa Paula to Ojai road; the Telephone road to Saticoy; Vineyard avenue from El Rio to Saticoy; the Camarillo road, State highway through the Santa Rosa Valley; the Wood road, Oxnard; Sespe avenues, and certain roads in Bardsdale.

Bean Market

As a business proposition, why should the grower of beans obligate himself to pay a high commission for the selling of his beans and also bear a heavy pool administration expense?

With a short crop no grower need worry about selling his Lima Beans at a good price. Don't be misled by any statements to the contrary.

The new pool is only an echo of the past pool, which was an emergency measure, and conditions do not warrant a continuance of same, nor would it be to your advantage with the strong market which will prevail on new crop beans.

Any pool must guarantee its prices. To do this, a large quantity of early beans must necessarily be sold at low prices, thus reducing the average price received by all members of the pool.

CONSTANTINOPLE HUMMING WITH U. S. ENERGY

"Invasion of Wealth," Name Given New Order of Things By Turk

CONSTANTINOPLE, July 12.—Americans make Constantinople hum with their energy, business methods and way of "going ahead" that makes even the old Turk, indifferent as he is to all that passes around him, lift an eyelash in mild surprise. American soldiers, Red Cross, Y. M. C. A., American business men, American machinery, food, clothing, merchandise of every sort and kind are now in this most dirty, casual and ancient city. The Turks, when they talk about it at all, call it "the invasion of wealth."

The Prussians have gone; the German invasion is over. But, besides this American invasion, is the Russian invasion, which the Turk, when he talks about it at all, calls, owing to its contrast with the American species, "the invasion of poverty."

Russians, Too, Abound
Every day the orderly, prosperous, business-like, keen-eyed American grows more numerous, busier, better at home in this most fascinating old city on the Golden Horn, the most wonderful city that ever was, with its mingling of the races, its white marble palaces, its noise, dust, and its seal of the Orient.

Every day, more and more Russians, poor, ragged, disordered, idle, "devil-may-care," hungry and pleasure-loving, flock here from the Bolsheviks, escaping by way of the Golden Horn from Odessa. At Stamboul, at more or less Americanized Pera, at Chiklin and other suburbs, Russians abound.

And what a contrast! The Americans, clean shaven every day, methodical, wide awake to all around; the Russians, dirty, unkempt, possessed with the one idea, to amuse themselves. They gamble every night in the hells of Pera, throwing down sheaves of rubles, in notes of a thousand, two and five thousand, which they feverishly change at the rate of 6 cents per ruble instead of the once nominal 50 cents.

American ways and energy have even penetrated into the Turkish homes. Many Turkish women now go about with uncovered faces "because the American women do it," and a few are taking an active part in politics, holding meetings at the famous Hippodrome to agitate for woman suffrage, quoting the women leaders of the suffrage movement away in that America which they have never seen and whose language they do not know.

Public Order Good
Public order is good throughout the city. Patrols of Italians and Turks see to that. At crossroads English policemen regulate that curiously intricate eastern traffic with the same calm they showed a few months ago at Piccadilly Circus.

Americans find life dearer here than in New York. A cab, drawn by an emaciated horse, $15 for a short course; a cup of Turkish coffee, 50 cents, about the size of a thimble.

One furnished room costs $100 a month, but no extra charge is made for the various kinds of bugs that infest it. White bread can be had at 50 cents per pound; American flour is very popular in consequence.

Except for the women who have discarded their veils, nobody seems to care about politics; the great thing is business—business for Greek, Armenian and Israeli—and each and all want to do business with the Americans. There is a market for everything and anything that grows or makes. And the Turk, who does no business, but smokes his cigarette, sips coffee and lets others toil for him, is ready to pay the price. For he is by no means so poor as he gives his neighbors, far and near, to understand.

PRESERVING FRENCH TREASURES
Little is no exception to the rule that every French center of population has its museum and every such museum has in it something of unique interest. The Palais des Beaux Arts there contained before the war the well known "Tete de Cire," or rather, head of a girl, in terra cotta and wax, which tradition had ascribed to many artists but without any assurance as to the attributions. The wax head was removed from the museum to a place of safety before the Teutonic invaders entered the city early in the war.

Like a great many other dealers, Wyatt & Townsend, local distributors for the Hudson and Essex, live in hope of some day catching up with their orders. The firm has been operating here only a little two months, yet it has developed good business for the machines represented, and the only concern now is the securing of cars to meet the demand.

"We hope to be able next month to have enough Hudsons and Essexes to make prompt deliveries, as we have had a waiting list for the past month and are yet behind with a few orders. We will get two Hudsons between the 20th and 25th, and will deliver them as the orders were made."

INTEGRITY

Some one has said of this, "The moral grandeur of independent INTEGRITY is the sublimest thing in nature."

Does anyone claim that INTEGRITY inures—either by reason of any special privilege or aptitude to any particular business or vocation? Is not INTEGRITY of purpose, or honest endeavor, as attainable to one as to another?

"But," you say, "what has this to do with the automobile business?"

Let us see.

INTEGRITY infers the fulfillment of our contracts.

INTEGRITY brooks no avoidance in the discharge of a duty.

INTEGRITY compels and cheerfully acquiesces to upright dealings,

INTEGRITY, to be in any manner acceptable, must be wholly free from dishonest motives.

Within the memory of a majority of the public the automobile industry has grown from a ridiculed and despised experiment to the third largest industrial activity in the country. So fast has it grown that both experience and ingenuity have been hard pressed to keep pace. What wonder then that conscious knowledge of its requirements and mental development as to its close-knit contractual relationship with the auto-thinking public should have lagged somewhat in the rapid rise.

No one will dispute—the conscientious auto tradesman least of all—that, as the industry grew, probity, as affecting its business dealings, fell far behind; to the degree that not so very long ago it was felt that a man shed some measure of his self-respect upon entering the automobile business, being thereupon classified with and suspected as of those inscrupulous once—and they were not a few—who had, by their very lack of INTEGRITY, their sharp practices and their entire disregard of "the golden rule," dragged the industry to the foot of the ladder of public regard.

Honesty IS the best policy. INTEGRITY is a profitable possession and it is with this awakened consciousness, with an undeniable and not-to-be-denied right to raise its standard of ethics and so conduct its business dealings, that the California Automobile Trade Association asks that you reciprocate with us in thought, exchange trust for trust, confidence for confidence, in the herein voiced wish and endeavor to make our individual and collective INTEGRITY both a verity and a living practice.
